A Message of Good Cheer.

The New Store, J. H. Kazanjian & Co., was organized a year ago this June with a new method of moderate reliable merchandise; we carefully study values and markets with a view of buying to the best possible advantage. Spot cash basis, best qualities at the lowest possible prices and strive to give every customer the most value for their money. Our ambition is to gain merit and hold the confidence of as many of our customers as possible by the best service we can give. The people's ability to judge quality and price has been shown in the unparalleled growth of our business. So accurately do they judge that they have left their accustomed places of supply and come to us, and they tell their friends and their friends' friends.

WE DO BUSINESS WITH A NEW METHOD

not as our old parents used to do, jealousies and differences, that so often grow out of competition. We have a high regard for every honorable and reliable dealer and even though we may at times differ in our opinions, we hold no ill will against any dealer. WE BELIEVE IN QUICK SALES AND LITTLE PROFITS. Bargains in

NO PLOT AMONG PALACE SERVANTS

Precautions Redoubled for the Czar's Safety.

Members of the Court Practically Prisoners.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 29.—An official denial is given of the report that the emperor and court are leaving Peterhof and returning to Tsarskoe-Selo, owing to the discovery of a revolutionary plot among the palace servants. The report is officially accounted for by rumors following the retirement of General Plesko, the commandant at Peterhof, and the appointment of Colonel Lemmentoff, commander of the imperial regiment of Uhlans, as his successor. The former's retirement is stated to be due to purely private considerations, but several officers of his staff are indignant at the promotion of Colonel Lemmentoff over their heads, and have asked to be relieved, giving rise to the report of the discovery of a revolutionary plot.

While the official explanations are regarded with suspicion, as it is beyond question that the terrorists and revolutionists are constantly attempting to gain a foothold in the palace, there is no cause to doubt the truth of the official statement that the court has no intention of returning to Tsarskoe-Selo this summer. Peterhof, in reality, much safer for the imperial family than Tsarskoe-Selo, being located on a gulf, enabling the imperial yacht to be moored at a wharf 200 yards from the palace, always available to convey the emperor and his family to Finland, or some other place of security. There is an elaborate system of wireless telegraphy connecting the palace at Peterhof with the fortress of Cronstadt, Viborg and Helsingfors and with the warships in the gulf, thus insuring His Majesty against being cut off from the outside world, as he was during the telegraph operators' strike last fall.

Since the revelations that disloyalty had invaded even "His Majesty's own" regiment, "The Preobrajensky regiment of the guards," it is asserted here that nothing will be surprising. General Trepoff, commander of the palace, has redoubled his precautions for the emperor's safety. The garrison at Peterhof has been strengthened by a guard of Cheassians and the detachment of Cossacks about the palace has been doubled. The servants at the palace, as heretofore, are the emperor's faithful Menchikes and Tartars, some of whom do not speak the Russian language. The Russian servants are confined for the time being to tried lackeys and valets, but among these terrorists have frequently boasted that they had spies. Newsboys carrying sacks are forbidden to enter the grounds of the old palace, to which the public is admitted, and no one is allowed within the walls surrounding the grounds of the small palace, where the imperial family resides, without a permit. Secret police by the hundreds, in civilian clothes, throng the parks and streets. The emperor never drives out beyond the grounds of the small palace, and the members of the court are practically prisoners within its walls. The principal amusement is tennis, but all the customary gayety of court life has vanished.

TWO INCHES IN EIGHT HOURS.

Rain Interferes With Celebration of King Edward's Birthday.

LONDON, June 29.—Most of the arrangements for the public observance of King Edward's birthday were cancelled today on account of a rainstorm of tropical severity which visited this country during the early hours of the morning. Over two inches of rain fell in London in eight hours, constituting a record. Many districts were flooded, people were driven out of their houses, the underground railroads were inundated and traffic was stopped. In some of the suburbs of this city, the streets were impassable to pedestrians, and the imprisoned occupants of the flooded houses were rescued by firemen in boats. The King ordered the cancellation of the ceremony of trooping the colors in the Horse Guard Parade, and abandonment of the reviews of troops at Aldershot and elsewhere.

The usual "rainbow dressings" of the warships at the naval parks were mostly countermanded.

A great amount of damage was caused by the storm in the agricultural districts.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY WITH RESERVATION

Thaw May Withdraw This Entry Next Week.

Defendant Makes Straight Insanity Impossible.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Harry K. Thaw entered a formal plea of not guilty, when arraigned on a charge of murder in the general sessions court today. The plea was entered with a reservation that it may be withdrawn on Tuesday next.

That the defense will make "emotional insanity" the basis for its fight for the release of Thaw was established today, unalterable homicide and the straight plea of insanity had been suggested as a line of defense, but Thaw himself made the insanity move impossible by his refusal to consider it, and by declining to allow alienists to question him. It will not be claimed that the young man is insane now. Such a plea would mean a sentence to the asylum for criminal insane at Matteawan.

This new line means a trial, and if the plea of "emotional insanity" is justified, Thaw will be a free man. The defense, it has also been announced, plans to bring out the whole story of White's life, of his relations with Evelyn Nesbit before she married Thaw and of his subsequent actions, which the defense claims annoyed Mrs. Thaw, and goaded the husband on to the shooting.

District Attorney Jerome, who is on his vacation, left Cape Breton yesterday for New York. The arrangement of Thaw today in the court of special sessions is simply for the purpose of receiving the prisoner's plea of "not guilty," and Mr. Jerome's return, it is expected, will hurry the actual trial. It is suggested today that the district attorney may personally conduct the prosecution.

Mrs. Thaw will be a witness for her husband at the trial. She has declared her willingness to tell all she knows. She fully realizes that in doing so, she will subject herself to a searching cross examination. That Thaw bought a revolver to kill White, or that the killing was premeditated, will be denied. The defense is prepared to prove that Thaw had been accustomed, for more than two years, to carry a revolver. About two weeks ago, according to evidence in its possession, Thaw was attacked by thugs while out late one night, and since that time had carried a weapon.

Thaw's action in telebooking Anthony Comstock yesterday aroused

This Morning's News.

THAW WILL PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

His Defense at the Trial Will be Emotional Insanity.

NEW YORK, June 28.—It took the grand jury less than half an hour today to indict Harry Kendall Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, after a Coroner's jury had heard the testimony of five witnesses of the shooting, and had declared that White had come to his death from one of Thaw's pistol shots.

There was only one additional witness before the grand jury in the indictment proceedings. She was Mrs. Thaw. She availed herself of her privilege as a wife and refused to answer any questions, and was excused.

Thaw will be called to plead to his indictment in the court of general sessions tomorrow morning. His counsel will enter a plea of "not guilty" for him when he is arraigned, and he will go to the Tombs to stay there until the trial, no date for which has been set.

It was authoritatively announced in behalf of Thaw after his indictment today that at his trial his defense would be "emotional insanity." It will be set up that this fit of temporary madness was brought on when Thaw saw White unexpectedly at the Cafe Martin on Monday evening only a few tables away. In connection with his plea, it was learned, the defense expects to show that Stanford White accomplished the Nesbit girl's ruin when he had got her stupefied from drink, and that Thaw learned of this later.

It also will be shown, it is stated, that after the girl became Mrs. Thaw White continually pursued her, and tried to annoy her by staring at her and ogling her at public places when she was with her husband.

The revolver with which the shooting was done, the defense will set up, was not purchased purposely to kill White, but had been procured by Thaw after an attempt to assault him two years ago, and had been carried by him ever since.

The defense does not expect that it can be shown by the prosecution that the Nesbit girl ever paid any heed to Mr. White's attentions other than to show annoyance of them, after she had become Mrs. Thaw; that she ever had any meetings with him or had ever manifested any disposition except to get away from him when he began the practices which it will be claimed he resorted to after her marriage.

In making this defense, Thaw's counsel are going to try to take over White's private life and bring out everything they can concerning his conduct. Mrs. Thaw has already turned over all the letters she has that were written to her by White. They may have an important bearing on the case, even though written to her before she was Mrs. Thaw, and may support some of the charges to be made against White in the defense as outlined.

One of the witnesses called, but not examined at the inquest today, in a sworn statement, says that he overheard Thaw say to his wife just after his arrest: "That man deserved it. You know I've got the proofs."

No attempt will be made now by Thaw's lawyers to have him adjudged insane. The examination by experts is designed simply to get some testimony from them, if possible, that Thaw was a person who might be particularly susceptible to a fit of "emotional insanity."

HARVARD WINS 'VARSITY RACE.

Crosses the Finish Line by Two Lengths and a Half Over Yale.

NEW LONDON, June 28.—The fruition of years of seemingly hopeless waiting came to Harvard today, and for the fourth time in 21 years the crimson triumphed over Yale in the annual 'varsity boat race over four miles of the American Thames in New England.

A superb victory it was, mighty, thunderous and powerful; for Harvard and Yale rowed stroke for stroke for a mile, two miles, three miles, a quarter, a half, with never a streak of daylight between the shells, and Yale's bow always on a line with Morgan, the No. 4 man in the Harvard boat.

Then, with a little more than a quarter of a mile to go, the gigantic Filley had his revenge. The Harvard stroke and captain had sat before in two other 'varsity eights in which Yale had won, and this was his chance. Up and up he drove the stroke, and foot by foot the crimson boat came away.

As it did so, utter and complete rout fell upon Yale, so often the conqueror. For a change it was Harvard that was the aggressor when the line was reached, and Yale's plucky men had done their best. The space between the shells grew wider and wider, and Harvard swept across the finish two lengths and a half the victor.

Three strokes before the line, Noyes, No. 5 in the Yale boat, fell back, faltering, and lay inert and pulseless as the leaden craft slipped across the long-sought mark. Weeks and Graham dropped limply down and the boat was gone and done for.

Harvard's men, in the intoxication of their victory, did not stop when the flags fell, but rowed on under the drawbridge amid the din of hundreds of yacht whistles, the boom of cannon and the shouts of thousands of rampantly Cambridge men and sympathizers.

It mattered little to Harvard men that Yale had won the Freshman and four-oared races in the morning. Filley's name had joined the list of Harvard coaches in 1885, Storrow in 1891, Perkins in 1899, Hinkinson, jr., in 1905. Filley, the four men to break the charmed circle spread by the arch-enchanter, Yale, for 21 years. Harvard, to the surprise of every one, settled down to 32 strokes to the minute, while the Yale crew, which had been rowing a 30 stroke at the most in practice, was rowing 31 strokes to the minute.

By the time the first half-mile flag was reached Yale dropped her stroke down to 32, Harvard's gait. But even rowing at this rate Harvard got a little the better of Yale.

Over the second half-mile Yale gradually settled down into her normal gait, which was 30 strokes to the minute, and as the Ellis did this, the Cambridge men let their stroke down to 31. The two crews held this stroke for a short distance after the first half-mile flag had been passed almost to the two-mile flag.

When the Ellis settled down to their normal gait their shell travelled better and they not only cut down Harvard's slight lead, but gained two seconds on Harvard. Yale, however, held this slight advantage for only a short distance. Harvard put on her steam and the boats finished the mile and a half on even terms.

Yale's effort, however, began to tell on her men just before the end of the first two miles, and Bautton dropped the stroke back to 29. When Filley saw this he quickly put his stroke up to 32, and at the Navy Yard he once more had his crew in the lead.

Yale put her stroke back to 30 and held it over the third mile. As soon as Filley had taken the lead away from Yale he let his stroke down to 30, and at this gait both crews passed the 2½-mile flag and the three-mile flag.

It was now clear for the first time that barring some accident, the race belonged to the Crimson. Filley had more power to spare than Boulton, and Yale's swing was beginning to look slow and heavy.

Half a mile from the finish Yale had dropped her stroke to 28 from sheer exhaustion, while Harvard still held hers at 30. But even at this point Harvard only had a second to her credit. For a quarter of a mile farther Yale prevented Harvard from increasing her lead, but over the last quarter of a mile Harvard began to slip away from her rival, little by little. A quarter of a mile from the finish Boulton raised his stroke to 32, where he gamely held it for a short distance as Harvard raised hers, first to 31 then to 32 and finally to 33.

When Harvard let go the last burst of power Yale had finished up every ounce of her endurance and the Crimson shell sped on to victory. Harvard finished the race in 20 minutes, 2 seconds; Yale in 23 minutes 11 seconds. The official times were as follows:

The official times of the 'varsity race were as follows:

Distance.	Harvard.	Yale.
Half-mile,	2:13	2:11
One Mile,	5:41	5:40

CLEMENT A CANDIDATE.

Nominated For Governor by Democrats and Independents.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 28.—Percival W. Clement of Rutland, who four years ago was an Independent Republican candidate for governor, and was defeated by a small margin, today was nominated for governor of Vermont, both by the Democratic convention and by the Independent state convention, which Mr. Clement himself had called for today in this city. An agreement was reached between the two conventions, whereby a fusion ticket was nominated for the various state offices, each convention nominating candidates for three positions.

Following is the complete ticket nominated: Governor, Percival W. Clement, Independent, of Rutland, lieutenant governor, G. H. Pope, Democrat, of Barre; secretary of state, S. R. Moulton, Independent, of Burlington; attorney general, C. A. Bullard, Democrat, of Burlington; state treasurer, S. S. Watson, Democrat, of St. Albans; state auditor, F. J. Hall, Independent, of Burlington.

Each convention adopted its own platform of principles, but the two sets of resolutions were very similar in character, both severely criticising the Republican conduct of state affairs during the past few years, and placing particular emphasis upon the increase in state expenditures, and the alleged unsatisfactory conditions of various state institutions. Both platforms declared in favor of a continuation of the present local option liquor law, with perfecting amendments.

THE ENEMIES OF THE ROSE.

[Outing Magazine.]

Be on the look-out for the enemies of the rose. You will have to fight for every flower. I have given up the use of hellebore, because it is so unreliable. Paris green is likely to burn the foliage if strong, and if weak it fails to accomplish the purpose for which it is used. I depend on a home-made remedy which is made by melting half a cake of the ordinary size of Ivory soap and mixing it with a teacupful of kerosene. Dilute this mixture with ten gallons of water, and apply with a sprayer, being careful to have it get to all parts of the plant. This preparation is far more satisfactory than any of the insecticides for sale by the florists, and will never injure the foliage or flowers. It is a good plan to begin the use of it before the various rose enemies put in an appearance, and keep up its use until their season of activity is over.

AGREED TO BY THE HOUSE.

Third Conference Report on Railroad Rate Bill Accepted.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Late this evening the House agreed to the third railroad rate conference report. Members were tired and hungry and good-natured, but persistent applause cut short the forceful efforts of several members and a "general leave to print" satisfied everyone who wished to set forth his position on the measure.

The report was signed by Senators Elkins and Cullom and the three House conferees, Senator Tillman again withholding his signature. The McLaurin commodity amendment was made to reply to "railroad companies," the word "companies" having been added to the previous agreement, which changed the application from "common carriers" to "railroads" in order to exempt pipe lines.

The pass agreement was based on the provision of the Senate bill, but two or three of the exemptions were stricken out.

Mr. Wadsworth called up the partial conference report on the Agricultural appropriation bill in the House today, and it was agreed to without discussion.

Mr. Wadsworth sprung a surprise on the House by sending to the desk a resolution that it is the sense of the House that the conferees do not recede from its amendment, known as the "meat inspection amendment," and the House was face to face with the proposition of having a contest with the Senate.

After considerable debate the resolution was adopted, 193 to 45. The advocates of making the packers pay for the inspection endeavored to secure a roll-call, but only 19 members demanded this, and the chair appointed Mr. Wadsworth, Mr. Scott and Mr. Lamb as the conferees on the part of the House.

The New Lawn Game of Discus, Yes---Discus.

This is the latest and most interesting game for both sexes yet invented. It is more fascinating than either croquet or tennis. Without violent exercise it can be played, and on the small grass plot as well as the large lawn. From 2 to 8 players can compete. An ornament to your lawn as well as a most interesting game.

Then we have "Quoitette" an improved and elaborate game of quoits. This game comes in two sizes, one for indoors and one for the lawn. Lovers of quoits will find this a much more skillful and excelling game.

A new line of Japanese Chair Cushions just received. Just the thing for piazza chairs or your pleasure boat.

Everything in summer goods marked down to prices that will make you buy.

THE NEWPORT JOURNAL AND WEEKLY NEWS.

THE FIRST COPY OF THE NEWS.

Much of Interest to Present-Day Readers in Old Edition.

Its Motto, "Our Country and Its Free Institutions Forever"—Started As a Morning Paper.

[Article No. 1.]

It's a poor sort of a man who doesn't take an interest in his family record and a justifiable pride in the good points of his ancestors, both immediate and remote. Something of the same sort seems proper in a newspaper. The man who would speak of his ancestors to others will soon find out, however, that he must exercise what may seem to him to be a very great degree of modesty, or he will fail to gain much of a hearing; and no doubt something of this sort would be agreeable to the reader of a paper that would speak of its past excellencies. Bearing all this in mind, and trying to look at what appeared exactly as it had appeared in some other periodical, there yet seems to be much of interest to present-day readers of the News, and some of these interesting things in the first copy of the News (May 4, 1846), are here given.

Paper came cheaper in those days. The little sheet of four pages (each of four columns, the columns being something over 12 inches long, and having, it almost seems, none of the items of expense of a modern paper, could be furnished at smaller cost, especially with a good patronage of advertisers; and so it began modestly in both size and price and the public could get the Newport Daily News every morning for a cent a copy.

There are some things that look and sound familiar to a reader of that old paper upon which several articles have appeared in the News. For instance, the name of T. Stacy, Jr., specially greets the eye, and it is pleasant to know that his zeal has not succeeded in crowding him out of business. Like the old paper referred to, the News had a motto and one, it is respectfully maintained, not to be ashamed of. It is also of good value in considering a return towards the old democratic form of government for our city by means of the proposed new charter. The motto was "Our country and its free institutions forever." That doesn't spill the common modern institutions of boss rule, or packed caucus fances.

The business announcement—the first thing in the paper—is of interest because it is so different from that of a present day paper. The weekly charge was six cents, payable to the carrier. To subscribers in town the yearly rate was $3, "payable quarterly in advance, after the first quarter." Mail subscribers had a rate of $2.75 a year, and it was pointed out that "According to the new Postoffice Law, Newspapers can be sent any distance under 30 miles, free of postage." And note the cosmopolitan announcement "V. B. Palmer is the only authorized Agent to contract for Advertisements for the Daily News, in the cities of Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Boston."

William Newton's "ad." follows, taking a generous 6-inch space. The upper corner has a small cut of a sloop—the "Rienzi"? He offers a wholesale and retail "Fresh Groceries, just received per Sloop Rienzi, from New York: 200 bbls. Western and Southern Flour, 125 packages Fresh Teas, just imported," 20 bbls. loaf and crushed sugar, 50 half sacks Liverpool salt, 100 bags Salina salt, 20 boxes blue and white starch, "25 bbls. and kegs Saleratus," "30 drums Figs," 25 bags almonds, filberts, Madeira nuts, Peanuts, 10 kegs pure ground ginger, "100 mats Cassia," "10 bags Cloves, Pepper, Pimento and Race Ginger," 50 bags shot. Also beef, pork, lard, (etc.), arrowroot, tapioca, ground rice, macaroni, vermicelli, patent candles, India curry powder, "pickle salmon," salsola, indigo, etc. "N. B. Arrangements have been made to ensure constant supplies of Fresh Goods on each arrival of the sloop Rienzi at this place. Families will have their Goods delivered free of expense."

Thomas W. Brown has a very proper "ad" about his Ready Made Clothing of every description. Also cloths, and cutting particularly attended to. "Don't forget the number, 119."

At the top of the next column is the ever memorable announcement of Sir Thomas Pratt, K. H. S. It looks a little long but simply has to be quoted. No summary will do for this. It is indeed unique.

House to Let.

"Strange that a harp of thousand strings
Should keep in tune so long."

The subscriber has several chambers to let in his house, which is beautifully located directly opposite Trinity Church Burying Ground; he will rent the rooms with furniture, or without, as may best suit the tenant. There is, probably, no more desirable spot in Newport, for those whose souls are not entirely steeped in sin, and wrapped up in the flimsy veil of this world's delusion; the occupant may sit at the window, and view the last home of man in all his mysterious and solemn grandeur, and seriously reflect upon the great uncertainty of all things human. Here he can commune with himself, and meditate, in full view of the grave yard, on the final consummation of all things and anticipate that universal crash, when the earth shall be burned up, and the heavens be rolled together as a scroll. We must reflect upon these things here, and be prepared with our passport, when we meet the last Tyler, or we shall receive the fatal mark of the black brush; why, land! what is a few days' sojourn in this miserable world, compared to a high seat in the Celestial Lodge above, where the Knighthood will be gathered in the pure robes of innocence and beauty!

In order to secure the chambers, early application should be made to

Sir Thomas Pratt, K. H. S.

Can any other paper produce a real estate "ad" to surpass this?

An assignee's notice recalls a bygone occupation of old Newport. Gideon Palmer, Jr., tanner, having made an assignment of all his property and effects to the subscribers for the benefit of his creditors, the usual notice is given said creditors. The assignees were William H. Cranston and Benj. G. Palmer.

Anthony Stewart's name appears as agent for steamers Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the "regular mail line for New York, via Newport." Cabin fare $2—deck $1.

Dodge's Dye House of Providence (office directly opposite the "Universalist Meeting house, a short distance West of the Arcade"), is duly advertised with T. M. Seabury, "110 Thames st," as agent for Newport.

Then comes "Arrival of the Great Western—New Goods for Election. Just Received 50 boxes 'Orangeges' and Lemons;" " " " "Mineral Water in small glass bottles, with and without syringe, the best article ever offered in this place." Other attractions named are children's fancy baskets, willow carriages and cradles, hobby horses, clothes, work, and other baskets; traveling, carpet and straw bags; bird cages in great variety, bird seed, etc. "A host of other articles too numerous to mention, and in order to know the variety and cheapness, just call at the Confectionery and Variety Store of T. Stacy, Jr.," etc. This ad is embellished with a notable picture of a combination steam and sailing vessel.

The finest cosmetic is in evidence, a small ad. at the bottom of a column announcing Ambreine Cream for beautifying the skin and giving a fair complexion. R. J. Taylor had it for sale.

Half of the front page is taken up by a poem and "a true story," by Jinnie Cole. It is headed "for the Newport Daily News," and is entitled "The Reform." It is the story of a young but resolute girl who smashed all the dreams of relatives and friends by discarding a lover whose: "trembling, eager hand" sometimes held the dice box and whom the wine cup never passed by. The story is not concluded in one number but is to be "tomorrow."

The news from the Artillery Company will perhaps be a good matter with which to close this article. It is the leading article of the second page. At the annual meeting Tuesday evening, April 28, 1846, the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:

Christopher G. Perry, Colonel.
Chas. D. Weeden, Lt. Colonel, vice Wm. H. Henderson.
George Burroughs, Major.
Benjamin A. Mason, Captain.
Thomas E. Townsend, Quartermaster.
Henry B. Turner, Surgeon.
James H. Demerest, 1st, Sergeant.
Thomas B. Carr, 2nd, Sergeant.
James Barton, 3rd, Sergeant.
R. P. Clark, 4th, Sergeant.
Charles Clark, 5th, Sergeant and Armorer.

Here indeed we are back in ancient history. Ordnance Sergeant Lawton was not then in office! In another column it is stated that the "Artillery Company will make their first appearance tomorrow in their new uniform, to escort His Governor and Legislature, from Townsend's to the State House, at 10 o'clock."

The old paper seems just bristling with names and events of interest to those at all acquainted with Newport, but probably, for the present at least, it would be better to stop here.

TIVERTON.

After an illness of four days, Benjamin F. Davenport, of the Bridgeport section, died Wednesday afternoon at his home. The deceased was 71 years old, and had resided in Tiverton all his days. He had followed the fishing business for years. For some time past Mr. Davenport had been employed at the Fisheries Company as a general hand, and was generally liked by all. The early part of the week he was seized with illness while at work, and had to be removed to his home. Since that time Mr. Davenport failed rapidly, and death came as a result of a general breaking down. He leaves a wife and one son, Benjamin F. Davenport, Jr.

John Delaney, general manager of the Fisheries company, has left on his yacht, the Katherine K., for a tour of southern waters. He expects to be absent about two months. Mr. Delaney has on board a party of guests.

A BOOK BY GROVER CLEVELAND.

The Outing Publishing Company have on the press for early issue a book entitled "Fishing and Shooting Sketches," by Ex-President Cleveland, which tells of the distinguished author's experiences on the lakes and streams after the finny tribe, and his outings over the fields and plains in pursuit of feathered game. Mr. Cleveland's opinions regarding the true spirit of sport in sporting ideals are expressed in his customary vigorous style. The volume will be elaborately illustrated with suitable pictures by Hy. S. Watson.

ON DADDY'S LAP.

[Arthur Tisdale White.]

When the shades of night have fallen,
When the sun has gone to sleep,
And the stars, like diamonds, brilliant,
From the blue begin to peep,
In my favorite chair I'm seated;
On the door a gentle tap,
And dear voices break the silence:
"Want to sit on daddy's lap!"

So I lay aside my paper,
Though I'd like to scan it o'er,
And a lad against either shoulder
Asks a story—"Just one more."
Then I tell them "Orphan Annie,"
"Doodle Bug," "Three Bears," may-hap,
Till the place is filled with laughter,
When they sit on daddy's lap.

Then we drift to Bible stories,
Of the Christ, the spotless One.
Eyes are closed, the lips are silent;
And my gladsome task is done.
To the land of nod they're journeyed.
'Tis no fitful, restless nap;
For the night they're safely anchored—
Fast asleep, on daddy's lap.

And I sit here, in the firelight,
Dreaming dreams of future years.
Of my babies—such no longer—
Till my eyes are wet with tears,
And a prayer ascends to Heaven:
"Father, bless each little chap;
Keep him safe, as at this moment,
Safe at rest on daddy's lap!"

FANCIES.

Howell—He is always saying, "What fools these mortals be."

Powell—He not only says it, but he acts it.—[The Bohemian.

"Algy, don't you find married life more expensive than bachelorhood?"

"Well, it may be more expensive than a rigidly single life, but it's cheaper than courtship."—[Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Henpeck—They can't punish bigamy too severely. No one should have any sympathy for the man who takes one wife too many.

Mrs. Henpeck—The idea, Maria! Do you think I should be sent to jail?—[Philadelphia Press.

Toastmaster—Before you were married you always liked to respond to the toast "The Women—God bless them." Do you want that same toast for tomorrow night?

Jack Newlywed—Well, say—you couldn't ring in a toast "The Men—God help them," could you, and let me respond to that? [Life.

"You must remember," said the heiress who was talking about her love affairs, "that he is of noble lineage."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne, "but we should not select husbands as we do books, merely because we like the titles."—[Washington Star.

"I tell you," began the fellow who had been aboard, "the stay-at-home man thinks he's pretty well posted, but traveling takes the conceit out of a man. Now——"

"It might," interrupted the weary listener, "if he never got back to tell about it."—[Philadelphia Press.

"I can't imagine what is the cause of all that noise upstairs," said Miss Flirtleigh, as she gazed tenderly into young Mr. Staylate's face.

"To me, Miss Matilda," answered that unhappy youth, as a bulky form appeared with ponderous stride at the head of the staircase, "the cause is plainly a parent."—[Baltimore American.

"Oh, what do you call those things you hang clothes on?" said Dunley, who was trying to think of "clothes tree."

"What things?" asked Jiggins.

"Why, they have arms that stick out like this and——"

"Oh, dudes!"—[Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Puffing and blowing, the fat passenger began to climb to the upper berth in the sleeping car.

"Pretty hard work, isn't it?" said the man in the lower berth.

"It is," answered the fat passenger, "for a man of my weight."

"How much do you weigh, may I ask?"

"Three hundred and eighty-seven pounds."

"Hold on! Take this one!" exclaimed the other, his hale beginning to rise on end. "I'd rather sleep in the upper berth, anyway. The ventilation is better."—[Chicago Tribune.

NEWPORT HOSPITAL (Legal Title).

Incorporated 1873. Private Institution.

This hospital has for thirty-two years kept its doors open to every case that could be cared for within its walls.

During the past ten years it has spent for the care of the suffering over $16,750 yearly more than has been received from them. For the last two years this amount has been $25,146 and $27,273 respectively.

It maintains a District Nursing Service covering the whole city.

It deserves and asks the liberal support of all those who are interested in caring for the sick poor, or in any way relieving suffering humanity.

Donations and legacies for the daily wants are always needed and gratefully received.

A cordial invitation is extended to all interested to inspect the Hospital and its work.

MAX LEVY.

Probate Court of the City of Newport, June 11th, 1906.

Estate of Elizabeth S. Wilbur.

George R. Chase and Frederick R. Coggeshall, Administrators of the estate of Elizabeth S. Wilbur late of said Newport, deceased, present their first and final account with the estate of said deceased, for allowance; and the same is received and referred to the Second day of July next at 10 o'clock, A. M., at the Probate Court Room in said Newport, for consideration, and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

DUNCAN A. HAZARD, Clerk.

Probate Court of the City of Newport, June 18th, 1906.

Estate of Albert A. Wilbur.

George R. Chase and Frederick R. Coggeshall, Administrators of the estate of Albert A. Wilbur, late of said Newport, deceased, present their petition representing that the personal estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the debts which said deceased owed, the expenses of his funeral, and of supporting his family, and settling his estate according to law; that said deceased at the time of his death, was seized and possessed of certain real estate (17 parcels) situated in said Newport and in the Town of Middletown and more particularly described in said petition.

And further representing that by a sale of only so much of said real estate as is absolutely needed the residue thereof would be so much injured as to render the sale of the whole estate more advantageous to those interested therein.

And praying that they may be authorized to sell the whole of said estate, or so much thereof as may be necessary to make up the deficiency of the personal estate, for the purpose aforesaid, with incidental charges; and said petition is received and referred to the Ninth day of July next at ten o'clock A. M., at the Probate Court Room in said Newport, for consideration; and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

DUNCAN A. HAZARD, Clerk.

Estate of James Openshaw.

James M. Openshaw, who has resigned as Administrator d. b. n. of the estate of James Openshaw, late of said Newport, deceased intestate, that Francis M. Hixson of said Newport, or some other suitable person, may be appointed Administrator de bonis non of the estate of said deceased; and said request is received and referred to the Second day of July next at 10 o'clock A. M., at the Probate Court Room, in said Newport, for consideration; and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

DUNCAN A. HAZARD, Clerk.

Probate Court of the City of Newport, June 18th, 1906.

Estate of Charles Talbot Smith.

Edith R. Hamlin, Guardian of the person and estate of Charles Talbot Smith minor, presents her petition in writing, representing that said minor is seized and possessed of certain Real Estate, situate in the Towns of Middletown and Portsmouth and particularly described in said petition and praying for reasons therein stated, that she may be authorized and empowered to sell said minor's interest in said Real Estate at public auction or private sale, for the purpose of paying the debts of said minor; for the support of said minor, and for the purpose of making a better and more advantageous investment of the proceeds of such sale; and said petition is received and referred to the Ninth day of July next at 10 o'clock A. M., at the Probate Court Room in said Newport, for consideration, and it is ordered that notice thereof be published for fourteen days, once a week, in the Newport Daily News.

DUNCAN A. HAZARD, Clerk.

TEN PAGES.

EMOTIONAL INSANITY.

It is many years since we have heard much about emotional insanity, but we are likely to have plenty of it now. About 25 years ago there was an epidemic of it in criminal trials. It became as frequent a ground of acquitting murderers as "heart failure" has recently been of accounting for deaths, and was so common that it was laughed out of court. It is now so long since the courts have had an overdose of it that Harry Thaw's friends hope it may work once more.

Of course, insanity has never gone out of fashion as a defense to murder trials, but emotional insanity is the kind you have only while you are committing murder. You are sane the minute before and the minute after, but while you are pulling the trigger you are emotionally insane. The emotion consists of anger; you are very angry at a man and you kill him. You have many friends who dislike to see you hanged and would miss your good company. If you were even locked up for a long time, so it is generally agreed that while you were committing the murder you were a victim of emotional insanity—or at least the man you killed was a victim of your emotional insanity.

All Thaw's friends are now recalling his peculiarities. They are not very peculiar; they frequently crop out in idle young men who have never had to do a day's work, who have never been required to do anything they didn't want to do, who have been supplied with more money than most men of great industry and exceptional talents can ever earn, and whose only occupation is amusing themselves and squandering wealth. Their position is irrational, and it is not singular that they often act irrationally. All that money can do—and it is a great deal—to save Thaw from execution will doubtless be done, but a word of caution is necessary here. If Thaw should not be executed it would not be solely because of his wealth. New York has recently tried for murder three women who had no money. One was acquitted, though there was no doubt about the killing; one was sentenced to imprisonment for a long term, and as to the third, two or three juries disagreed and the case was dropped.

A SANE AND SAFER FOURTH.

It is time for the annual protest against the kind of Fourth of July celebration so common in this part of the country and the annual plea for an observance of the occasion which shall be saner and safer. The usual form of celebration, with its firecrackers and fireworks, brings more of slaughter than a battle and kills or maims more than fall in some entire wars. This may seem exaggeration, but figures show that in the war with Spain the entire loss in actual battle to the American army was 290 officers and men killed and some 1,500 wounded, while a single day's observance of the great American holiday has resulted in the death of 168 persons and an almost innumerable host of injured.

The sermon against such a slaughter of the innocents has too often been delayed until after the deadly work had been done and the appeal for a better and less disastrous form of celebration has come too late for immediate heeding, and by the time the next Fourth of July has come around the warning has been forgotten. This is the best time for the exhortation for better things to be made, just on the eve of the holiday, when warnings may be fresh in the ears of all and there can be no excuse of forgetfulness. Why is it necessary to have such awful destruction of life and limb on this occasion? Is it any essential part of patriotism? Is there any required connection between the anniversary of independence and a wild and wanton revel in blood?

The fault for this massacre of youth, for they are the ones who suffer most from the celebration, lies largely with the older persons, who not only permit their offspring to use fire arms and explosives, but often join them in the carnival of danger. If the use of such instruments of death and disablement was prohibited by both authorities and parents the loss of life and limb could be easily stopped, and patriotism would receive no shock or setback. There are safer and saner ways of celebrating the dawn of independence. If children and older people must have some noise on the Fourth they can get it from other mediums than explosives and firearms, and save their lives and their bodies.

This is no plea for the abandonment of any desirable form of observance of the holiday. We would take away nothing in connection with the day which is reasonable and safe, but it is foolish and worse than foolish to allow the use of forms of celebration which mean so great a loss of life and the infliction of so many serious injuries. This is a travesty upon patriotism. The bulwarks of liberty would be unshaken if firecrackers and fireworks, pistols and guns, should be kept out of use and safer methods of celebration were adopted, and our youth would lose nothing of their spirit of independence and patriotism by such a course.

City officials and parents ought to unite in the effort to secure a safer Fourth of July celebration this year than has been the rule in the past. There is no need of serious accidents from the use of explosives, for these forms of celebration should not be permitted. Young America would have as good a holiday and both children and adults would be spared much pain and suffering. Now is the time for action toward making the celebration of the nation's holiday more reasonable and less reckless.

REFORMS IN THE CONGO.

King Leopold has decreed the enforcement of the reforms in the administration of the Congo which were recommended by a commission. This is a sufficient acknowledgment that the reforms were necessary, and their specific nature is a virtual confession of the charges which have been made. This reform, too, is entirely the result of outside pressure. There is no indication that it would ever have been brought about except for the exposures made by missionaries, travelers and Mr. Casement, the English consul, and the demands of the British government. The latter proposed that reforms should be prescribed by a commission created by the signatory powers. To this Leopold would not assent, but he did appoint a commission of three Belgians, who proposed a broad scheme of reform, and the decrees of the king have made them law. Of course the value of the reform will depend upon the faithfulness with which it is applied.

The natives are guaranteed the ownership of their lands in accordance with their ancient usages. This is a vitally important protection for them. Limits are placed upon the amount of taxation, and the use of armed force in the collection of the rubber tax is forbidden. The police are deprived of firearms, and narrow limitations are placed upon the number of firearms allowed at the various stations. One of the most important reforms is to take from the men in charge of trading stations the authority to wage war on the natives. This has been a prolific cause of barbarity. Leveling war on the natives is made a governmental function and is prohibited until efforts to effect a peaceful settlement have failed, and there are further precautions and limitations on the use of troops against the aborigines.

If these reforms shall be enforced in good faith there will be few repetitions of the barbarities which in past years, especially the last ten, have branded with disgrace the Belgian conquest of Africa.

The dry dock Dewey has started on the last stretch of its long voyage from Norfolk to Manila. This portion, from Singapore to Manila, is 1,320 miles, and naval officers are confident that the worst of the journey has been completed, and that with the southwest winds which prevail at this season of the year in the Pacific ocean the Dewey will cover the distance at the rate of considerably more than 100 miles a day and reach its destination in safety.

It did not take long for the grand jury in New York to bring in an indictment in the Thaw case. The law in New York unreasonably works quickly, but an indictment does not necessarily mean prompt disposition of the case.

Harvard won the 'Varsity race and doesn't care that Yale was successful in the minor events. The 'Varsity is the only thing that really counts.

Other state, Vermont, is to try fusion, to win from long established Republican control.

RELIC OF EMPRESS EUGENIE.

(Paris correspondence London Standard.)

If you are intimate with M. Victorien Sardou, and if the day be sunny and his spirits good, he will show you the greatest treasure he possesses. It is a little cambric handkerchief with the imperial crown embroidered in one corner over a small square "E." If you press him, he may tell you how he came to find it, and the story is well worth hearing, for the handkerchief belonged to the Empress Eugenie, and M. Sardou found it himself in her room at the Tuileries on the day she and the Emperor fled from Paris.

I sometimes wonder how many Parisians know why one of the broadest streets in the middle of Paris is called the Rue du Quatre Septembre. It was on September 4, 1870, that Victorien Sardou, who was just becoming known as a dramatist, met his friend Armand Gouzien on the Place de la Concorde. A riotous crowd was clamoring about the gates of the Tuileries Gardens. Every now and then a man would climb the railings and tear down one of the gilt eagles, and the guards inside the gates saw that things were going badly, and retreated toward the palace.

"There will be trouble," said M. Sardou. "Unless something is done the storm will burst in a moment; one or two people will be shot, and then these madmen will rage through the streets of Paris, carrying their dead in front of them."

Gouzien agreed with him. "Get on a chair and talk to them," he suggested. "They know your name, and will listen to you."

They did listen, and presently M. Sardou and M. Gouzien were admitted by the guards as the crowd's ambassadors to the governor of the palace, General Mellinet. They met the governor and M. de Lesseps on the palace steps.

"General," said M. Sardou, "the Republic has been proclaimed, and the people are clamoring to be let into the grounds of the Tuileries, which now belong to them. If they are kept out, they will force their way in, and they will sack the palace, or, at all events, try to, and that means bloodshed."

"I will go down with you and talk to them," said General Mellinet. He did so, telling them that he would let them into the grounds, but that they were too many for the building. The crowd cheered, and were quite satisfied, although some roughs tried hard to lynch MM. Sardou and Gouzien for preventing them from having entry to the palace and from looting, as they wished.

Then the gates were thrown wide open, and, like a tidal wave, the mob swept over the gardens. MM. Sardou and Gouzien, who had saved the palace, were invited by the general to walk through the deserted rooms. Another man had joined them, a man named Radenez, a journalist. Next day M. Radenez had articles and interviews in the newspapers of Paris describing how he had prevented the crowd from breaking into the Tuileries, and what he had seen in the palace. He had not, however, seen the Empress's handkerchief. M. Sardou had that safe in his pocket.

BUSINESS IS KING.

[O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.]

Fifty years ago in Harvard or Yale or any of our large colleges, it took courage for a student to say that he was going into business after he got his sheepskin. 'Of what use is a diploma," fellow students would say to him, "If you are going into business? Why, a farmer might as well go to college as a business man."

A tremendous change and evolution have taken place in this country, especially during the last quarter of a century. Today business is king. Nothing else is more evident. It is the first impression that strikes the foreign visitor as he makes a tour of America. In fact, he hears very little of anything else. It is all business, the development of vast schemes, which makes the foreigner stand aghast. Other countries know very little about doing things upon such a vast scale as we do them here. Everywhere business is making such strides that unfortunately nearly everything else is being covered up. We read comparatively little in the newspapers today about the professions and the fine arts, and the more aesthetic vocations. Business is king. We see it and hear it everywhere, until the brain grows dizzy, and the imagination staggers.

Thousands of professional men are going into business. Everywhere we hear of them leaving the pulpit, the law office, the schoolroom, or the professor's chair to enter mercantile life.

Is it any wonder that youths everywhere are eagerly looking forward to business careers when they compare the slow methods, the years of pinching economy, by which their fathers managed to lay up a mere competence, and the tremendous prizes offered in the commercial world of today?

Why should we not look at business as dignified? It has been the greatest civilizing power the world has known, for it has brought the people of the world together as nothing else has, tending to harmonize their differences, to develop a common language through our steamships, our telegraphs, telephones, and railroads. In fact, it will not be long before there is practically but one country, for we shall converse as freely with the people on the other side of the globe as we communicate now with people in our different states. Business is not only king, but it is also the greatest missionary in the world.

It has taught men that selfishness is fatally wicked, and that the man is most successful who is most considerate of the man at the other end of the bargain, that it pays to be unselfish, and that the shortest-sighted policy is selfishness. Think what business has done in the way of broadening men, of compelling them to throw away their prejudices—religious, political, geographical, and racial! Business is bringing men of all nationalities together, and compelling them to live together in peace and harmony. We are beginning to see that there is a great gospel in business; that it is a great elevator of races; that the struggle to better his condition takes man out of the filth and mire and makes him a cleaner and more decent and agreeable man with whom to live. Millions of people have been lifted out of savagery through commercial education alone.

IRRIGATION IN NEVADA.

[Ralph D. Paine in Outing Magazine.]

The irrigation work of the national government has made its first great conquest in this same Nevada. Into this parched sand and sagebrush the water was turned last year from the works of the Carson and Truckee Project. It was the most important event in the history of the state, of more lasting value even than the discovery of the Comstock lode. From the massive masonry dam constructed to hold the waters of the Truckee river, the blessed flow was turned over 50,000 acres.

This was the first completed section of a plan which is to irrigate almost a million acres of desert. This means, within a few years, 50-acre farms for 20,000 families, on which they are certain of large and profitable crops. It means also new towns and cities to supply this great farming community with the products of the mills and mines and factories of the country, East and West.

More than that, it means a new population of perhaps 200,000 souls, and a prosperous principality added to the greatness of the Union. It is all purely creative, for wealth is made where there was none before, and magnificent opportunity offered for independent and self-reliant livelihood to those who hunger for it.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Manufacturers Trust of Providence Merged in Union Trust.

Parker Mills in Warren to Grant Increase—Gypsy Moths in Hoger Williams Park.

Notices were posted in the Parker mills at Warren Wednesday, announcing to the employes that, in accordance with the general movement in mills of New England, wages will be advanced, beginning July 9. These notices, while brief, were regarded with pleasure by the employes, who have just completed a strike for a demand of a 10 per cent advance. The help returned without obtaining their demand, but there was a promise that, if the mills in that section made a raise, the Parker mills would follow suit. The notices do not specify the amount of the raise, and naturally, the operatives are anxious to know just how much it will be. Another large mill at Warren, that of the Warren Manufacturing Company, employing 300 hands, posted notices late Wednesday afternoon similar to those of other mills in New England, announcing a general raise of wages to take effect July 9 and, like the notices in the Parker mills, not specifying any amount as to the raise.

Official announcement was made yesterday afternoon of the consolidation of the Union Trust Company and the Manufacturers Trust Company of Providence. The combined companies will be known as the Union Trust Company and will occupy the quarters heretofore used by that concern. The president will be J. E. Studley, who has been president of the Manufacturers Trust Company, and Marsden J. Perry will be first vice president. Colonel George L. Shepley, vice president of the Manufacturers, becomes one of the vice presidents of the Union Trust Company. George W. Lanphear, treasurer of the Manufacturers, will hold that position with the Union, and all the other officials are taken care of in about the same manner. The board of directors will be made up of the men who were directors of the two merged concerns.

While burning the burlaps which surround Roger Williams Park on the east, north and west side, Wednesday, Gypsy Moth Inspector John C. Huntington found a gypsy caterpillar, which has passed the barrier by traveling several blocks and across the New York, New Haven & Hartford tracks, about in the centre of the north row of burlaps. The park authorities have done all in their power to fight the pests and keep them outside the 400 acres of fine woodland, but the gypsys have finally succeeded in making their entrance, and Curator C. Abbott Davis declares that more vigorous measures must now be taken to prevent their spread. They have not yet crossed the speedway, and the immediate cutting down of all the small locusts, willows and alders and other brush growth is urged in order to prevent their spread into the big swamp. This growth, once they reach it, will provide a hiding place for hundreds of thousands of gypsy caterpillars. Seventeen gypsy moth inspectors are at work fighting the pest, and $9,000 of the $5,000 appropriation made by the legislature has been expended, with what effect is shown by the latest developments. Mr. Davis is attempting to interest the Rhode Island members in Congress in securing part of the appropriation of $100,000, which will undoubtedly be made this week, for use in this state.

Rev. J. J. Woolley of the Park Congregational Church, Pawtucket, is in the City Hospital at Holyoke, Mass., with a fighting chance for life, having undergone an operation for appendicitis yesterday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Woolley is the father of President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley. He had intended to attend the college Commencement exercises last week, but owing to illness was unable to be present. He visited his daughter this week, however, and while in South Hadley suffered a recurrence of his ailment. He was taken to the hospital yesterday and his case was diagnosed as appendicitis. An operation was decided upon. Mr. Woolley sustained the shock well, considering his advanced years, which are the main factor against him in the struggle for recovery. The surgeon stated after the operation that in his opinion the patient might recover.

Arthur Gallant, whose parents reside at 21 Northup avenue, Providence, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in Allen's pond, near the North Burial Ground, in that city. The young man could not swim, but had ventured out upon a raft, from which he fell into the water and went down for the last time before his companions could reach him. He was 18 years of age. The raft on which he had been floating about the pond was 25 feet from the shore and at the point where he fell from it into the water there is said to be a depth of 12 feet.

STOLE THE WHITE HOUSE GOLDFISH.

[Tribune Bureau.]

There are no goldfish in the fountain east of the White House grounds this year, and a great many inquiries are made of the policemen and attendants of the mansion to ascertain the reason. For many summers the circular pond, with its leaping plume of water and its gorgeous assortment of lilies, has been one of the chief delights of tourists and downtown residents, and the scores of little red fish, ever ready to dart to the surface for crumbs or flies, have added greatly to the attraction of the spot. Recently a bridal couple stopped to admire the fountain, and the bridegroom, who had evidently visited Washington before, asked the guide why the goldfish had been removed.

"They can't keep the fish in here, that's why," explained the man who steers passengers around.

"They don't jump out, do they?" asked the young woman. "Perhaps the White House cats get them," she added.

"No, the tramps are the robbers," said the guide. "They steal them out faster than they can be put in here. Last summer, the fishman tells me, tramps walked off with more than 50 of those pretty fish, and by the time the weather grew so cold that they usually take the fish out to put them in warmer quarters, there wasn't any fish to move. When they drained the fountain, would you believe, it, every last one of those little beauties had been spirited away."

"Poor fellows," exclaimed the bride. "hunger probably drove them to the crime. Even goldfish are good to eat, I suppose. But it's a dreadful shame to kill them. Why, they wouldn't make more than a half bite.

"They don't eat 'em, ma'am, they drink 'em," said the guide.

"Is that so?" cried the bride, "I suppose they dissolve them in something or other and make a kind of soup?"

"Well, hardly," replied the guide. "They take them down to the first saloon that has an aquarium—and put them up with the 'barkeep' for the real red stuff. If the goldfish are good sized they get a long drink of 'red eye'; if they are smaller the saloonkeepers won't give them more than a beer. And those fish are worth 50 or 75 cents apiece."

"But I don't see how the tramps can take the fish away without killing them?" said the young woman, inclined to be unconvinced.

"Oh, that's easy," retorted the guide, "every hobo carries a tomato can."

GETTING READY FOR CAMP.

Young Men's Christian Association Boys Leave for a Two Weeks' Outing at the Smith Farm.

The rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association were a lively place this morning because a number of lively boys were preparing to go into camp for two weeks. The rooms were filled with bags, valises, shawl strap bundles, cots and mattresses, cooking utensils, bats and balls, tennis rackets, and household furniture, of the kind and quantity which boys in camp require, and those in charge were busy straightening out some of the little tangles which would crop out. At 1 o'clock, however, the wagons arrived to take the equipage to the camp and a short time later the boys took places in other wagons and the lively caravan started for the place where the boys are to live for the next two weeks.

There will be in all in the camp, at some time during the two weeks, 26 boys, but all did not go out today, as some are members of the classes which graduate this afternoon from the grammar school, and remained over for the exercises. They will join the others in camp tomorrow. The boys will be in the care of Assistant Secretary Knight, assisted by Mr. T. Laurence Freeborne, formerly physical director of the local association, Mr. Alfred Gatzemeier and Mr. Norman B. Cole. Edward N. Simmons will be the cook and his services assure good living for everybody.

The boys who will attend the camp are G. H. Burnham, Jr., W. J. Sullivan, Jr., Fred Biesel, E. H. Barker, Donald P. Thurston, Harold C. Warden, Allen McGinn, Morton Lee, Charles Sherman, Howland Sherman, Carter Coudray, John Hoar, Harry Barber, Perry Rose, Chester H. Oler, Franklin Goddard, Patrick J. Boyle, Jr., Walter S. Langley, C. Francis Barrington, Fred Bryant, Henry Bawler, William A. Peckham, Frank O'Sullivan, Thurber Marshall, Godfrey Delangie, Edward White and Earl McGinn.

The camp is at the Smith farm on Third Beach avenue. The house, which will accommodate all the boys under cover, is about half-a mile from the East river and three quarters of a mile from the Third beach, so that there will be plenty of opportunity for bathing and boating, while the open fields will afford ample room for field sports. There will be a brief routine of daily exercises, but there will be plenty of time for play, and little restriction upon the boys beyond a general supervision by those in charge. In order that parents may see the boys in camp, Wednesday, July 4, and Saturday, July 7, have been appointed as parents' day, when visitors will be allowed in camp.

FIRST GRAMMAR GRADUATION.

Pupils of Calvert and Coddington Hold Closing Exercises in High School Hall.

The graduating exercises of the ninth grade schools of the Coddington and Calvert buildings took place this afternoon in the assembly hall of the Rogers High School, the hall being taxed to its utmost to accommodate the scholars and their parents, to whom admission was necessarily limited. The exercises opened with singing by the school, "The Charge," by Rich, under the direction of Miss Lilian B. Simester. Superintendent Lull gave a brief greeting to the parents and after another chorus, "Out of the Deep," by Lohr, the address of the afternoon was given by Supervisor Jeremiah E. Burke of the Boston public schools. Another chorus, "Merry June," by Vincent, was sung by the school and the King medals for amiability were presented by Mrs. Harold Brown of the School Committee to Elizabeth Germaine Hammond of the Coddington school and Alice Catherine Watson of the Calvert school. The Read and Pell medals for scholarship were presented respectively to Frederick Copeland Bryant of the Calvert school and Vernon Myles Francis Tallman of the Coddington school, the presentation being made by His Honor, Mayor Cottrell.

The prizes given by Major Theodore K. Gibbs to the pupils in the various grades for excellence in work in the industrial classes, including sewing, cooking and Sloyd, from grades VI to IX, were then presented. The school sang "Come where the Fields are Beaming," by Kinkel, the diplomas were presented by Dr. Christopher E. Barker, chairman of the School Committee, and the exercises were concluded by the singing of "Our Public School," by Skelly, by the school.

There were 162 pupils graduating from the two schools, 82 from the Calvert and 80 from the Coddington.

$20,000 FOR THE POSTOFFICE.

Senate Amendment to Public Buildings Bill Provides for Addition and Improvements.

The Senate amendment to the omnibus public buildings bill passed yesterday provides an appropriation of $20,000 for addition and improvements to the Newport Postoffice. How this money will be expended is not known as yet, and will not be determined until the government architects have planned the improvements in various ways. The desire of Postmaster Landers is that an addition be built, which will increase the working space in the office, which is much cramped. He suggests that this can be done by taking in the space now occupied by the alleyway between the main building and the store house. This is the only available space now left to build on, and accordingly it seems likely that the architects will approve of the postmaster's suggestion.

The additional room is needed this summer, but of course it cannot be secured so soon and if the work proceeds with the expeditiousness of the last improvement it is possible that by late fall plans and specifications will be ready for the contractors to bid on and then at some indefinite date the needed room will have materialized, perhaps by next summer.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING.

Mr. James Allman Easton and Miss Elizabeth Easton Thurston Married at Kay Chapel.

There was a pretty June wedding at Kay Chapel yesterday afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Easton Thurston, daughter of Mr. William Thurston of Middletown, being married to Mr. James Allman Easton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Easton of Newport. Before and after the ceremony a musical program was rendered by Mrs. William W. Covell.

The bridal party was led by the four ushers—Messrs. Benjamin F. Downing, 3d., John Wheeler, Harry Landers and Briggs Weaver—and these were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Ethel Coggeshall of Middletown, and by the bride resting on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The bridal party was met by the groom, his best man, Mr. George Lawton of Bristol Ferry, and by Rev. Walter Lowrie, rector of Trinity Church, who performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown was of white costume chiffon, a la Princess, with accordion pleated chiffon trimmings. Her tulle veil was caught with Bride roses and her shower bouquet was of Bride roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor wore white dotted mulle over yellow silk and a lace straw hat with yellow silk trimmings and lilies of the valley. Her shower bouquet was of white sweet peas. The chapel was attractive with palms and vases of white flowering shrub.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the groom on Rhode Island avenue. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Easton will reside on Wesley street.

A PIANO RECITAL.

The first piano recital by the pupils of Miss Margaret L. Spencer, assisted by Miss Nora U. Coffey, soprano, and Master Samuel Spencer, violinist, was held at her home on Warner street, last evening, before the children's parents and friends. Of Miss Spencer's 17 pupils, all but five played.

The program opened with a lively duet, "Over the Race Course," Blake, rendered by Misses M. Spencer and T. Pierson. The next three numbers, "In the Month of May," Behr; "Morning Devotion," Lubner; and "School March," Streabog, were short selections, played by Miss Clara James, Miss Annie Johansen and Miss Margaret Walsh.

Miss Nora Coffey then sang "Tell her I love her so," De Faye, which was received with great applause by the audience and caused her to respond to an encore, after which Master Spencer played "Japonica," Lerman. "Nimble fingers," Orth; "Hand Organ Man," Oesten, and "My Papa's Waltz," Streabog, were rendered respectively by the Misses Katherine Sullivan, Annie James and May Sullivan.

Master Samuel Spencer's selection on the violin showed him to be quite a violinist for one so young.

"Holiday in the Village," Heins, by Miss Helen Pierson, and "Skylark," Wollis, by Miss Gertrude Keiter, were acceptably given, and Miss Genevieve O'Neill's rendition of the "Naids," Valmont, and "Turtle Dove Polka," Behr, was exceptionally good.

"Les Rhondelles," Bachmann, and "La Princesse Valse," Goldner, were executed in a finished style by Miss Teresa Girr and Miss Teresa Pierson, respectively, both showing a large amount of technique.

The program was brought to a close by "Nocturne, op. 9, No. 2," Chopin, and "Impromptu," Von Weber, cleverly rendered by Miss Spencer.

Miss Spencer's pupils play with excellent expression, delicate touch and good technique, much to the credit of their young teacher, who is a pupil of Miss Marian G. Dowling.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Miss Winterhoff of New York is guest of Miss Neill on Beach street.

—No pupil has been tardy in Mr. Clarke's room, Lenthal School, during the past three years.

—Horses and carriage arrived this morning from New York for Mr. J. T. Woodward and Mr. R. H. Clothier.

—The ice schooner has sailed for Maine, having disposed of the last of her cargo. It is understood that she will return with another cargo.

—The following yachts are in the harbor: Steamers Idala, Wanderer, Sayonara, Thetis; schooners Valmore, Darpna, Amorita; yawl Sylvia.

—A private car of horses and carriages arrived this morning from Larchmont for Mr. William Murray, who is occupying his cottage at Price's Neck. He also received an auto by boat.

—Herbert L. Dyer has rented, through his Broadway office, for Mrs. Benjamin F. Case, the cottage at 39 Second street to John S. Johnson.

—United States Hotel arrivals include F. D. Miller of New York, H. Schrepeler of Detroit, and F. J. Gardiner and J. H. Williamson of Providence.

—Steamer General of the Wickford line left New York early this morning and is expected to arrive here this evening. She will resume her place on the line at once.

—Major David Price, artillery corps, has been detached from treatment at the general hospital at Washington Barracks and ordered to his station at Fort Barancas, Florida.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for the Gilbert estate their villa on Bellevue avenue, known as "Le Chalet," to James Brown Potter of New York for the season.

—The President yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Lieutenant Colonel Daniel W. Lockwood, engineer corps, and formerly in charge of the engineer office in this city, to be colonel.

—At the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday the pastor will preach in the morning service on "The Covenant Relationship Between God and His People," and in the evening on "Pardon for Great Sins."

—There is nothing in fishing circles today except the arrival of more swordfish, for which the fishermen receive two cents a pound, which is so little that it seems scarcely worth while to catch the fish. Ninety barrels of mixed fish were all that went on the boat last night, and all went to New York.

—At the First Baptist John Clarke Memorial Church Sunday the pastor will preach on "The Glory of the Church," the Lord's Supper will be observed and new members will be admitted, at the morning service. In the evening Dr. Johnson will preach a Fourth of July sermon, the topic being "Our National Prosperity."

—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Easton, who were married yesterday, were taken out over the island by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Downing, Jr., in their automobile after the wedding reception, and to some place beyond Bristol. A few of the guests learned of the trick and went to Bristol ferry by car, but failed to locate the couple on the boat.

—This afternoon Mr. A. O. Howard, the Associated Press operator in the News office, and Mr. J. H. Anderson, operator for McFarland, left for Boston, where they will take part in the speed contest arranged for the telegraph operators of New England. It is thought here that they will be able to show that the telegraph operators of Newport, if no one else, are not slow.

—Yesterday a man passing under the name of Charles Hearst disappeared, and with him an assortment of goods from Russo's tailor shop on Franklin street. Hearst appeared with a hard-luck story about two weeks ago, and finally was given employment by Mr. Russo. Yesterday he was left in charge of the shop, but on the unexpected entrance of Mrs. Russo was discovered at work at a trunk and explained that he was looking for wrapping paper. He remained until afternoon and then disappeared.

—Mr. Damon Lyons, a well known baritone soloist, has been spending the week here as guest of Dr. V. Mott Francis and Mrs. Forbes Curtis, the latter Dr. Francis's niece, and early in July will, at the request of friends, give a song recital assisted by Mrs. Curtis and others. Mr. Lyons was originally a member of the Augustin Daly company, appeared here several years ago with Kyrle Bellew and Mrs. James Brown Potter, and has recently been singing the part of Marquis Kloot in the musical comedy, "Fantana."

ENTERTAIN GRAND OFFICERS.

Canonchet Lodge Elects Officers and Celebrates Its Twenty-Third Anniversary with a Banquet.

Canonchet Lodge, No. 2139, G. U. O. O. F., held an important meeting last evening, the grand officers of the Grand Lodge making their official visitation, officers being elected for the ensuing three months, delegates being appointed to the various higher bodies which will hold meetings during the year, and last but not least the lodge celebrated its twenty-third anniversary with a banquet following the business session.

The grand officers in attendance were District Grand Master William Bland, District Deputy Grand Master J. T. Allen, District Grand Secretary P. S. Sawyer and District Grand Treasurer William Gross of the District Grand Lodge, No. 501, of Rhode Island. After the reception of the grand officers in due form, the lodge proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing quarter, which resulted as follows:

Noble Grand—F. E. Yancey.
Vice Grand—J. N. Clark.
Past Noble Grand—R. W. Beckwith.
Noble Father—J. Kilby.
Past Noble Father—W. H. H. Holmes.
R. S. to N. G.—S. S. DeCoursey.
L. S. to N. G.—G. W. Little.
R. S. to V. G.—T. L. Jenkins.
L. S. to V. G.—James Slade.
Inner Guard—William Hallback.
Warden—F. Woodson.
Chaplain—Rev. H. N. Jeter, D. D.
Elected Secretary—F. Mathews.
Permanent Secretary—E. O. Jackson.

James T. Allen was elected delegate to the thirteenth R. M. C., to be held in Richmond, Va., October 2; Aaron Potter a delegate to the District Grand Lodge, to be held in Providence in September; Joseph H. J. Talbert, B. F. Brown and E. O. Jackson delegates to the twenty-eighth annual demonstration of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows of New England, to be held in New Bedford, Mass., Labor day, September 3.

After the formal business of the evening the lodge, with the grand officers and the officers of the Household of Ruth Lodge, sat down to a banquet in honor of the twenty-third anniversary of the organization of Canonchet Lodge. There were no formalities in this part of the evening's entertainment, but all thoroughly enjoyed the good things provided and the pleasant social intercourse which accompanied it.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. W. P. Henszey's horses and carriages arrived this morning from Philadelphia, via Newport.

Three-masted schooner Annie F. Kimball of Bath anchored in the east harbor last evening, to await a favorable wind.

Dr. and Mrs. D. B. Kindleberger left last evening for New York. They will spend the summer in Norway, sailing for that country July 5.

Mr. G. L. Crawford and family of Philadelphia arrived today at their cottage on the Dumplings, for the season.

Mr. J. P. Wetherill and family, of Philadelphia, arrived yesterday afternoon at their cottage on the east shore, near the yacht club, for the summer.

Dr. Finney and family of Baltimore arrived at the Spencer cottage, Bryer avenue, today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dunnan of Newport are at their cottage near the West ferry.

Manager Kinney of the Thorndike has secured the services of an orchestra for his house, especially for concert purposes during the evening dinner hour, a feature new to the hotel business here, and one which seems to be meeting with success by the number of bookings for that house for July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Beach, George H. Doyle, H. E. Marion, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith of Providence, William P. Bales of Lancaster, Pa., Miss Anna B. Mowry of East Greenwich, Miss Ione Earle of Dighton, Mrs. R. W. Chaplin, Mrs. R. P. Cushman, the Misses Cushman and Master Rufus P. Cushman, Jr., of Monson, Mass., are registered at Maplewood.

Dr. W. W. Russell and family of Baltimore arrived today at the Champlin cottage on Bryer avenue, for the season.

According to present arrangements the Conanicut Yacht Club will be well represented in the open race of the Bristol Club at Bristol tomorrow, and if they do not bring back some of the prizes it would be surprising. The following boats have planned to enter in the 15-foot class: Wetherill's Wenonah and Whitall's Snipe; in the 18-foot class, Thomas's Vanken, Woodward's Bohemian, Catlin's Grace and McDowell's Coyote, and also ex-Commodore Dodge with his 18-footer. There will be one entry in the ocean race, which also starts from Bristol tomorrow, the 25-footer Novice belonging to Austin Sands of Newport but entered under the Conanicut Club flag.

A. O'D. Taylor has rented for Alvin H. Peckham the furnished cottage, known as the Hopkins cottage, on the shore front off Bay View drive, to Mrs. S. C. W. Nordhoff of California, for the summer season.

CAPTAIN HARTY'S DEPARTURE.

Things were quiet and somewhat sad at fish headquarters on Long wharf today, because there is a vacant chair in the ranks of the Long Wharf Fish Agents' Yacht Club. Vice Commodore Charles H. Harty left this morning to again sail the ocean blue, and his departure leaves a large vacancy. Many of the members of the Yacht Club were on hand when the 8:10 train left for Boston, Gloucester and elsewhere, to bid him farewell and good luck. Despite the saddening fact that the captain was leaving, everybody in the party looked cheerful, and so did Captain Harty. He is to fit out a new mackerel schooner called Esperanto and take her on her first mackerelling trip.

APPEAL TO VOTERS.

Urged to Register in the Interest of Senator Wetmore and of Newport.

To the Editor of the News:

Sir: Please permit me to say a word to the voters of Newport through your paper, to those who have not registered. They have only two more days. The right of franchise is a great privilege to any people. It is the citizen's redress to be delivered from any public wrong that might be carried on in any community. The man who through mere carelessness neglects to register and vote for good government is not worthy of citizenship. I learned today that many of my people had not registered.

This year is the most important year for Newport and the southern part of this state, from the fact that Senator George Peabody Wetmore is to be re-elected next year to the United States Senate. Newport and the southern part of the state cannot afford to neglect doing all in their power to re-elect that statesman, in the person of Senator Wetmore. For the last 12 years he has been of invaluable service to our state. To get an idea of his worth you only have to ask the poor widow whose husband died or was killed in the service of the United States government, and the old soldiers who were wounded in the battlefield in the defense of their country. Senator Wetmore has secured pensions for many who were worthy and needed some one to represent them at Washington, and many other things needed for the state of Rhode Island he has secured. Senator Wetmore looks after the interest of Newport and the southern part of the state as no other representative at Washington does. I call him a statesman, because there is in these days such a great difference between a statesman and a politician. A statesman seeks to do all in his power to help the people, while the politician seeks to get all he can from the people.

I visited the United States Senate at Washington last year a long while after Congress had adjourned, and to my great surprise I found Senator Wetmore there, hard at work in the interest of the country. At the time the thermometer registered about 80 in the shade. A man with his wealth, to tie himself down to serve his state, is something to be looked at.

I appeal to every man who has a vote to register and go next fall to the polls and vote for the men who favor and will pledge themselves if they are elected to the state Legislature to cast their vote for the re-election of Senator Wetmore. He is, and was ever since I have known him been, a friend to the negro, and we as a race want to see him returned to Washington next year.

NEWPORT SHRINERS AT JUNE OUTING.

About a dozen members of Palestine Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, from this city attended the annual June outing of the Temple yesterday. It started in Providence at the Masonic Temple at 10:30, there was a parade with the Fort Adams Band, a sail, a clam dinner at Field's Point, a sail down the bay and an outing at Rocky Point, which lasted well into the night; at least it lasted longer than the Newport delegation did, for they returned to Newport in Captain Champlin's launch, so as to be ready for business today, leaving the others at the Point. It was agreed that the weather was great and the time corresponded with the weather.

SALARY SHOULD BE DOUBLED.

President's Traveling Allowance Forestalls Increase.

People Interested in What Chief Executive Does—Good Story Told of Brownlow.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The allowance of $25,000 for traveling expenses for the President is in a way an acknowledgment by Congress of a failure to pass a law in the last Congress increasing his salary. Nearly everybody in both Houses who has spoken on the subject says that the salary of the President ought to be doubled; that he should receive $100,000 a year. Just before the close of the last Congress a movement to secure this increase was made, but it was started too late. A new term for Roosevelt began on March 4, and his salary could not be increased during his term. If that were possible there is not the least doubt such an increase would be made. The $25,000 appropriation for traveling expenses showed the temper of Congress in this regard.

There were men in Congress who criticised the President for allowing newspaper men to accompany him on his trips about the country. As a matter of fact, the newspapers are responsible for having the correspondents on the Presidential train. All the press associations have a representative, but that is all, save some illustrated papers, whose men are guests of the President. All this is because the people want to know what the President does and what he says. If the people did not want to read about the President on his travels, the newspapers would not publish anything about him, and the newspaper men would not be sent with him. As it is, if the President did not take the newspaper men on his train, the newspapers would send a special train to follow him.

While a group of Senators were sitting in the room of the committee on interoceanic canals, Senator Morgan grew reminiscent and told about his early experience in the Senate. Alabama, he said, was represented in the Senate after the Civil war by "carpet-baggers," and he was one of the most to defeat that element. At that time he had as a colleague Senator Spencer, who, with Roscoe Conkling, "cooked up a deal" to unseat Morgan without making a report or giving the subject any consideration. Conkling wrote a speech and Spencer delivered it, pointing out that Morgan was not legally elected. It was quite a bitter speech and at its conclusion a vote was taken. Every Senator voted for Morgan except Spencer, not even Conkling standing by the "deal."

Some one who knew Spencer recalled that he was sutler in a Union regiment in the Civil war, and Morgan said that he held the same position in an Alabama regiment. His last notable appearance was at Bismarck, N. D., when he appeared with a scheme to establish a lottery in that state. The famous Louisiana lottery was about to be driven out of the Pelican state and it was looking for a place to operate. Spencer went to North Dakota and almost succeeded in establishing a great lottery organization in that state, but public opinion defeated it when the people found out what was proposed.

One evening, not long ago, Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and Senator Carter of Montana made a trip in an automobile to Great Falls, about 14 miles above the city. On their return they had proceeded about three miles when the machine broke down. All efforts to fix it were unavailing, and the two Senators started to walk, with an idea of catching a car or stopping at a suburban resort seven miles out. But the cars had stopped running and they could not obtain accommodations, so they walked the entire 11 miles. There had been a great deal of rain, the roads were bad, the dogs particularly vicious and with no respect for Senatorial trousers or legs. Altogether it was a long and disagreeable tramp, and the next time these Senators go out in an auto they intend to have a repair wagon accompany it.

Here is the story which is told on Representative Brownlow of Tennessee and which he denies, but it is too good to be stifled. One morning the Vice President picked up Brownlow and proposed to take him to the Capitol. Brownlow accepted and on the way the Vice President stopped to make some purchases. Brownlow remained in the carriage, and some friends passed by and asked him what he was doing.

"Just taking a ride in the fire wagon," facetiously responded the Tennessee man.

Just then the Vice President came out, entered the carriage and drove away with Brownlow. But the story traveled fast and was soon at the Capitol. Brownlow heard that it had reached the Vice President and he began to "get busy." He wished to see the Vice President, but he was shut up in executive session. So he waited until adjournment and when he saw Mr. Fairbanks he explained that the whole thing was a hoax, a put-up job by some of his friends, and that he (Brownlow) was not responsible for it. The Vice President laughed and said no damage had been done.

THE GERM-LADEN SPONGE.

[Boston Globe.]

Considering the extraordinary capacity of the sponge for holding water and the frequency of its use, it is obvious that enormous quantities of water must in the course of time pass through its innumerable cells. For example, if a sponge which absorbs, say a pint of water, is alternately soaked and squeezed out a dozen times during a bath, the amount of water that has entered into and passed out of the sponge at a single sitting, so to speak, would be 12 pints, so that during a year at this rate it would have taken 500 gallons of water to have traversed its cells. This would have been a great deal of rain, the roads were bad, the dogs particularly vicious and with no respect for Senatorial trousers or legs. Altogether it was a long and disagreeable tramp, and the next time these Senators go out in an auto they intend to have a repair wagon accompany it.

However that may be, it is obvious that the sponge must arrest the impurities of water just as does a good filter, and sooner or later slimy matter accumulates, the quantity and quality of which depend upon the character of the water supply. The use of soap would, as a rule, increase the slime owing to the formation of insoluble curds of lime soap. The number of organisms and the amount of impurity in the water may be quite insignificant in relatively small volumes of the water, but when the accumulation caught in a sponge represents some hundreds of gallons of water, the sponge may obviously learn with potentialities for evil.

There is no better disinfectant for the purpose than sunlight, and the sponges, after having been washed thoroughly in strong washing soda solution of hydrochloric acid, and finally in pure water, should be squeezed and hung up to dry in the sun's rays. This process also renovates the sponge in a most satisfactory manner. Among artificial disinfectants a weak solution of formaldehyde or sulphurous acid would appear to be suitable.

LIVING FOR THE FLAG.

[Capt. Harold Hammond in St. Nicholas.]

One of the most touching as well as the most beautiful examples of devotion to the flag, is to be found in the records of our Civil war. The Sixteenth regiment of Connecticut Volunteers, after three days of the hardest and bloodiest of fighting, became convinced that defeat and capture by the enemy were imminent. The ranks were depleted, and to hold out longer would only involve needlessly further sacrifice of life. But even in their hour of peril the zealous patriots thought more of the fate of their battle-scarred flag than of their own. Just before the enemy made his final assault on the breastworks the gallant captain shouted to his men: "Whatever you do, boys, don't give up our flag; save it, save it at any price." In an instant the flag was torn from its staff and cut and torn into hundreds of small fragments, each piece being hidden about the person of some one of its brave defenders.

The survivors of the regiment, about 500 in number, were sent to a prison camp, where most of them remained until the end of the war, each cherishing his mite of the regimental colors. Through long months of imprisonment many died from sickness, privations, and exposure and terrible privations, and in all such cases the scraps of bunting guarded by the poor unfortunates were entrusted to the care of some surviving comrade.

At the end of the war, when the prisoners returned to their homes, a meeting of the survivors was held and all the priceless fragments of the flag were sewn together. But a very few pieces had been lost, so that the restored emblem was made nearly complete.

That flag, patched and tattered as it is, forms one of the proudest possessions of Connecticut today, and is preserved in the state capitol at Hartford, bearing mute testimony to the devotion of the brave men who were not alone ready and willing to die for it on the field of battle, but to live for it through long years of imprisonment in order that they might bring it back whole to the state that gave it into their hands to honor and defend.

ROGERS ALUMNI RECEPTION.

This Year's Graduating Class Entertained in the Assembly Hall of the New Building.

The annual reception given by the Rogers High School Alumni Association to the graduating class was held last evening in the Assembly Hall of the new Rogers High School, the guests being first received in the library. The receiving committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson, Miss Josephine S. Perry, Greenlaw, and Mr. Edward K. Stevens.

During the reception and for the dancing music was furnished by Mr. John T. Crecque's orchestra, and during the evening Miss Anna M. Smith gave three readings. Frappe and cake were served. Among the guests at the reception were the Misses Leavitt, Miss Allan, Miss Stenhouse, Superintendent Herbert W. Lull, Dr. and Mrs. Christopher P. Barker and Colonel and Mrs. William J. Cozzens. The committee in charge of the reception consisted of Mr. William R. Harvey, chairman; Mr. H. G. Oman, and the Misses Anabel Driscoll, Edith Balcack, Susan W. Swinburne, Reba Ward, Mae Rounds and Josephine S. Perry. The annual business meeting of the association will be held in the High School Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A BATTLE OF BIRD AND BEAST.

[Harper's.]

Silent as an owl in the black of night, the hawk glided low on white wings across the little open space cleared by the fallen maple, paused an almost imperceptible instant above the unlistening squirrel, and then, wings closed, dropped upon him with unerring talons. But for some strange reason the harrier seemed powerless to bear away his kill, while his angry, frightened screams drowned out the dying squeak of the squirrel, he strove with great rattling wing strokes to get purchase on the air, but could not. Over and over again he struck downward with his beak, apparently at the squirrel, though of this, because of the blur of his whipping wings, I could not be sure. In a moment he half toppled forward, and then, like a large broken winged partridge, he flopped about among the tangled coils of roots, uttering meanwhile shrill screech on screech that seemed fairly to lacerate his throat. In but little more time than it takes to tell it, a dozen kingbirds had gathered, and were buzzing round the struggling harrier like goldflies round a horse, adding their spiteful cries to his harsh din; now a crow appeared out of nowhere and searched deep in his throat for his hoarsest cry; blue jays flashed across the clearing, and back again in a frenzy of clamorous excitement; a swarm of clattering blackbirds rushed into the tree above me till its branches sagged and creaked like those of a bearing tree overweighted with fruit—all in an instant bedlam was let loose around that old wind-wrecked maple.

Under cover of the uproar I crept nearer and saw that a big black dog snake, his bulldog jaws clamped on the upper leg of the harrier was grimly fighting to pull him down from behind while the harrier with his speed of terror and hate sought desperately to reach his assailant with his beak. It looked as if the snake must win for the harrier was perceptibly weakening in his vain counter-attack; but a sudden lift with the harrier's long wings half tore the snake from his hold, and swung him for one brief moment within distance of that rending beak. Up a big red gash gaped open on the snake's writhing flank, and he let go and tumbled back among the roots. Up leaped the hawk, his pearly white breast streaked and blotched with blood from his wounded leg. Like magic the cries of all but the kingbirds were hushed, while, still screaming with rage and hate, the hawk rose heavily skyward and marked his course athwart the wind for the shelter of the woods.

by its adoption of resolutions recently upholding all the actions of Parliament and announcing that the men wanted no more police duty entailing the staying of brothers or fathers, has so affected His Majesty that he has ordered the name of the disloyal first battalion to be stricken from the roll of the imperial guards. In addition the soldiers and officers of the battalion have been deprived forever of the special rights enjoyed by guardsmen and hereafter the battalion will be designated "the special infantry battalion."

The general staff no longer conceals its fear that the morale of the entire army is profoundly shaken, and that with Parliament championing the cause of the mutineers in each instance as it arises, the first big test may find troops lined up as the French guards did two days before the Bastille fell, on the side of the people, and against the monarchy.

The Stove today says that the troubles in the army have routed the reactionary court camarilla, and have precipitated a definite decision not only not to dissolve Parliament, but to dismiss the Goremykin cabinet, and that in the meantime the emperor has directed the ministers to reply to all interpellations in Parliament.

Count Witte, from his self-imposed exile abroad, has despatched several urgent telegrams here, emphasizing the necessity of putting a stop to the anti-Jewish outbreaks, the impression of which on the outside world has seriously affected Russia's credit.

SOLD RED CROSS BLANKETS.

Employes at Golden Gate Park Appropriate the Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Accused of selling large quantities of blankets and appropriating the money, John Clark, superintendent of Red Cross relief station No. 1 at Golden Gate park, and George Bryant, engineer at the children's playground in the park, who, it is alleged, aided and abetted Clark, were arrested by detectives yesterday. The police say that they learned of the alleged peculations through A. Suggerman. While a refugee in the park, Suggerman made the acquaintance of Bryant, and after Suggerman had resumed business it is alleged Bryant called upon him and said he could sell him a quantity of new government blankets. Bryant said he could deliver him 400 and if the price offered was satisfactory it would lead to the delivery of 800 pairs a week. Suggerman told the police, who set a trap for the man. The police secured 400 blankets, which will be held as evidence.

A LITTLE COMPTON POULTRY CASE.

Little Compton was considerably interested in a case before the district court this morning, and a number of citizens of that town were present to hear what was said and done. The case was that against George E. Briggs, for breaking into the henhouses of George V. Snell and Horace G. Dyer in Little Compton, and the larceny therefrom of a number of hens. Briggs was caught in Fall River on the morning of May 25 by inspector Shea of the Fall River police force, with hens in his possession. Some of these were identified by Mr. Snell, who had his poultry marked.

According to the evidence Briggs confessed that he had broken into the places and stolen the hens. Inspector Shea, Town Sergeant Pearce and Messrs. Snell and Dyer testified. There was no evidence for the defense. Mr. Sullivan appeared for Briggs and Mr. Sheffield, Jr., represented the Town of Little Compton.

The court held the prisoner to be probably guilty and bound him over on the two cases for the action of the grand jury at the October session of the superior court, bail being fixed at $300 in each case. This is the same bail that was set before and which Briggs has been unable to secure.

The representatives of Little Compton say that for a long time poultry has been stolen from the farmers and Briggs is the first one to be arrested. They know quite well who has been doing the work and that Briggs is only one, but is the only one they have been able to get. It was thought that he might reveal his associates, but though he called one of the men who lost poultry to see him at the jail, and was promised that if he told the prosecution would cease, he refused to give away his associates.

Probation Officer Tonham had a field day so far as the docket was concerned, having 42 cases assigned for today. Of these 29 were juvenile cases and were continued to December 28 next. Of the 13 adult cases three were discontinued and ten were continued to June 28, 1907.

RAPID CAR BUILDING.

[Engineering.]

There have been a good many attempts to establish records in the building of locomotive engines, and they have all gone to show that almost incredible feats of construction can be managed if a program of work is carefully drawn up and rigidly carried out. One does not look for such triumphs of organization except from among the leading works of this country or America, and it is somewhat of a surprise to find that equally meritorious performances may be obtained from proverbially slow native labor in India, when directed by competent European engineers.

It fell to the lot of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company to need a trailer coach to run in connection with a small tank locomotive at extremely short notice, and advantage was taken of the fact to see what could be done in the company's workshops at Parel in the way of rapidity of construction.

On March 1, this year, the order was given, drawings were at once put in hand, and the necessary material ordered. By the 26th of the month everything was ready for erecting operations to commence. The men, 88 in number, under the direction of eight "maistries" were assembled at 8:20 A. M., and started to work 10 minutes later. Some laid down the framing and made the floor, others worked at the sides and ends, so that by 4:30 p. m. a considerable show had been made. No overtime was worked, the length of the working day being eight hours.

By Wednesday morning the underframe, which had been prepared in the meantime, was in position under the body. The doors, windows, blinds, seats, etc., were simultaneously in the hands of 66 carpenters under the guidance of three "maistries," while nine trimmers prepared the upholstering and decorations. On the afternoon of the third day the carriage received its first or priming coat of paint. The painting of the inside and outside of the vehicle was proceeded with on the Thursday morning, a charge man and 20 painters being employed, and the outer roof cover was also put on, the doors were hung, windows put in place and the general internal arrangements were completed.

The final coats of paint and varnish were given on the Friday. The car on which this remarkable work was done was of no mean dimensions. It measured 62 feet in length, and was nine feet six inches wide over the mouldings. The steel underframe was 50 feet long, and rested on four wheeled bogies, spaced 40 feet apart from centre to centre.

HOW TO CATCH TROUT.

[Outing Magazine.]

In the small, swift-running brooks that tumble over rocks and sunken tree trunks where the water swirls in funny circles, the tackle should be of the lightest and daintiest description—a four-ounce, eight-foot rod that is not too long and getting everlastingly entangled overhead, that is easy to guide through brambles and laurel bushes—such a rod is invaluable. Have the line to match—the thinnest and lightest in weight; also have the reel very small, with a stiff click to retard any rushes under low branches or fallen logs. Trout always dart off, if possible, to hiding places where it is difficult to dislodge or get at them. The best leader for this fishing should be very fine indeed, and only three feet long, as it often happens that the tip cannot be raised because of overhanging branches, and a long leader cannot be reeled in close enough to get the net under the fish. A willow tree with rubber ring to fit on the wrist is advisable; especially so when the fish run to a good size, of from 10 or 15 inches, and it often happens that when a fish is hooked there is no place in sight where one can lead him out of the water on to the beach.

The hooks cannot be too small, and a liberal number should be supplied; those tied to a fine shell of the same thickness as the leader. This completes the outfit. It is a great mistake to use split shot to sink the worm. The bait should at all times float on the surface like a fly. Trout always rise to a worm (and will never follow it to the bed of the brook, even in deep water), providing the angler is out of sight.

In baiting the hook never put on a great bunch of three or four worms; it is not half as effective as a small, single live worm. With a big bunch some time must elapse before the fish swallows it, and then if a small fish is landed he has to be killed to extract the hook. Large fish will swim around a bunch of worms as if doubtful about touching it, because in nature no such thing happens, whereas a single worm only half impaled on the hook with the tail wriggling around, arouses an instant desire to seize it quickly. To properly hook a worm it should be worked right over the hook until it is entirely covered. That will nearly insure the barb's piercing the lips instead of the hook being swallowed.

HOTTEST DAY OF THE YEAR.

Thermometer Registered 98 Degrees in Streets of Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Death and prostration followed the burning rays of the sun in Chicago yesterday. It was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 93 degrees in the United States observatory and touching 98 in the street. No lake breeze tempered the scorching heat, and the intense humidity added to the torture of the thousands who were forced to work in the crowded downtown and factory districts during the hours when the mercury was at its highest. Four persons were fatally stricken and 14 others were hurried to hospitals or their homes in the hope of saving their lives.

HANDS BANDAGED EIGHT WEEKS

With Bad Case of Eczema—Treatment by Three Doctors Made Them Worse—Grateful New Hampshire Lady Says: "No Matter How Long Any One Has Suffered with Eczema

"CUTICURA REMEDIES WILL CURE IT"

"Three years ago this summer I had a very bad case of eczema in my hands. They were so bad I had to keep them bandaged for eight weeks. I had four different doctors. The first three made them worse. The last one helped them for a little while, but the next summer they broke out worse than ever; and as I had seen Cuticura advertised in the papers a great deal, I thought I would try it. I took the complete treatment of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills. Before I had used one box of Ointment my hands were all smooth again, and now I am doing all the work for four and my hands are all free from eczema, and I cannot say too much in praise for Cuticura. My hair was falling out fast and a few applications of the Ointment stopped it. If there is any part of this letter that would be the means of others trying Cuticura, I am willing you should publish it; as I would like others to be cured as I was; for no matter how long any one has suffered with eczema, Cuticura Remedies will cure it. Yours truly, Mrs. Leon J. Hoyt, Box 402, Bristol, N. H., July 18, 1905."

ITCHING ECZEMA

And All Other Itching and Scaly Eruptions Cured by Cuticura

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head; all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such, stands proven beyond all doubt.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors, Boston. Send for "The Great Humor Cure."

AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture
From backache, rheumatic pain,
Any ill of kidneys or bladder,
Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills.
A cure endorsed by thousands.
Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

SIDNEY JUSTUS.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

WHAT HERPICIDE DOES.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the tiny parasitic growth in the scalp that causes dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Once this microbic enemy of the hair is destroyed, and kept out of the scalp, the hair is bound to grow as nature intended, except in cases of chronic baldness.

WHAT SUNLIGHT DOES.

Sunlight is nature's great germ destroyer and prophylactic. The effect of sunlight upon the scalp proves highly beneficial, if a complete plan of scalp cleanliness is carried out. This cannot be done without the use of Herpicide, which prevents reinfection and keeps the scalp pure and wholesome.

More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide than from all other hair remedies combined.

HOT WEATHER TROUBLES.

The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities during the summer months carries out poisonous and refuse matter that would otherwise clog up the pores of the scalp.

Incomplete elimination of this waste produces a hot and feverish condition of the sweat glands known as Prickly Heat for which Herpicide gives immediate relief. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Col. Thomp Burton, Member of the Board of Managers of the Ohio Penitentiary, writes as follows of Newbro's Herpicide:

"As to Herpicide I find it an excellent hair dressing as well as being the first and only absolute dandruff cure I have found. Upon my advice a number of my friends are using Herpicide, and the unanimous verdict is that Herpicide is, in all respects, everything that its manufacturers claim for it."

A JULY LUNCHEON.

Menu Should be Light and Dainty in Character.

In Planning Meals During Summer Heat an Impression of Coolness Should be Given.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

With long days comes summer heat, and in planning little meals for our friends or our families we try to give them an impression of coolness and daintiness. The menu for today is light in character, yet sufficient to satisfy the appetite.

Potato Soup with Whipped Cream.
Bread Sticks.
Fish Timbales. Tomato Sauce.
Broiled Spring Ducks.
Lamb Chops. Peas.
Shrimp Salad. Cream Cheese.
Wafers.
Frozen Strawberries.
Angel Cake.
Coffee.

For a table spread for six take three potatoes, pare and half them. In the meantime scald a pint and a half of milk in a double boiler. Rub together one tablespoonful of butter and two of flour. Drop this pastry lump into the hot milk, and stir gently until it melts and slightly thickens the liquid. Add a stalk of parsley and 10 drops of onion juice, cover and let cook for 10 minutes. Mash the potatoes, blend with them a pint of the thickened milk. Press this through a sieve, blend with the remainder which is in the double boiler. Season well with salt and pepper, cover and cook five minutes longer. Have ready two-thirds of a cupful of heavy, sweet cream which has been whipped to a solid froth. Fill cups two-thirds full of soup and on each drop a heaping tablespoonful of the cream, then dust with the merest dash of paprika (this adds a dash of color.)

Bread sticks can generally be purchased from the baker. When one prefers them home-made take a cupful of bread dough, work into it the slightly beaten white of an egg, a little more flour if needed and let rise again. When very light roll out with the hands in long sticks the size of a lead pencil. Lay an inch apart on flat, greased pans, brush with cold water. When light again bake in a very moderate oven until pale brown and well dried out. These are used either cold or warm.

A pound and a half of halibut, cod or any solid white fish will be sufficient for the timbales. Cook gently in salted water (to which is added a sprig of parsley, a tablespoonful of vinegar and a slice of onion, until the flesh separates from the bones. Drain, cool and flake. Make a rather thick white sauce with one cupful and a half of milk, one heaping tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a scant teaspoonful of salt, a half teaspoonful of white pepper, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a tiny pinch of mace; keep covered until cool. Add the fish and the well beaten yolks of six eggs. Fill well buttered timbale molds, stand in a pan partly filled with hot water and cook in a moderate oven until firm in the centre. The sauce served with these requires a pint of cooked and strained tomato, two scant tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour and a high seasoning of salt, pepper and onion juice.

As an accompaniment to the timbales cook a half cupful of farina in a pint of milk for half an hour, adding as it begins to thicken 10 drops of onion juice, a half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. When done stir in the beaten yolk of an egg, cover and set aside until cold. Form in balls an inch in diameter, dip each in slightly beaten egg, roll in fine stale bread crumbs and just before the meal fry (four or five at a time) in smoking-hot, deep fat until golden brown. Drain on soft paper before serving.

While loin chops are preferred by many, rib chops make the best appearance at a formal meal. Broil them and serve prettily garnished with parsley or watercress. A quart of shelled peas will be ample for six. In a saucepan melt together two tablespoonfuls of butter, a scant teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of white pepper and one scant teaspoonful of sugar. Turn the washed peas into this, cover and shake over the hottest part of the fire for five minutes. Then add three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, cover again and draw to one side, letting cook slowly until tender. If young from 25 to 30 minutes will be ample. More water may be added from time to time to keep them from burning, but they should be almost dry when done.

Canned shrimps may be used when the fresh ones cannot be obtained. Open them several hours before they are needed to let them drain well, rinsing thoroughly, then draining and drying on a cloth. Cut them in half inch bits, marinate with a French dressing and let stand on ice half an hour, then serve on a bed of lettuce and pass a good mayonnaise with them.

Hull and wash a quart of berries, then mash and mix them with a cupful of granulated sugar and the juice of a lemon. Let stand for two hours, stirring occasionally. In the meantime boil together for five minutes one pound of sugar and a pint of water. Strain and cool. Rub the fruit through a sieve, mix with the cold syrup and freeze. Strain and cool. When firm pack down in the can, repack with ice and salt, cover and set away for two hours to ripen.

LOST STUDS AND BUTTONS.

[New York Sun.]

"Plenty of people leave collar buttons and cuff buttons and shirt studs in shirts when they send them to the laundry," said a laundryman. "As a rule these are not of much value; but we do sometimes find fine buttons, and sometimes costly sparklers. A customer of ours sent us once in this way, in one of a bundle of shirts sent to the laundry, a $250 diamond, which came pretty near to being finally lost.

"This diamond was set in a shirt stud, and he had used this stud to fasten together the front of a dress shirt through the holes in the shirt bosom at the bottom, out of sight, below the top edge of the low waistcoat. He had wanted an ordinary button to put there, but failing to find one when he was dressing he just picked up this diamond stud. Then he forgot it, and in the next bundle of shirts he sent us he sent along that $250 diamond stud.

"Of course we inspect the shirts as they come in for just such things, looking over the bosoms particularly, but we handle many shirts, and that stud was down in an unusual place, and very likely folded under, out of sight, in the crumpling of the shirt, and it got by. Next morning the owner himself discovered his loss and notified us, and of course we promptly began a search for it.

"The shirt supposed to contain the missing diamond, along with the rest of this customer's shirts, and others, had already gone into a washing machine, but we stopped this machine and took everything out of it. The stud was not in any of this customer's shirts, nor was it washed out of its original place, as it might have been by the softening of the linen in the water and the motion of the machine, to be found anywhere in the folds of any of the other shirts. No diamond. But then—a modern washing machine, you know, is half as big as a hogshead—a man got into the machine, and in the water, on the bottom, he found it.

"So buttons discovered on the first inspection are of course saved, and buttons remaining in the shirts through the washing are likely to be discovered by the starchers; but buttons washed out of the shirts in machines, and of which we have no knowledge, are likely to be drawn off with the water when the machines are emptied, and in that way some may, first and last, be lost."

MORAN PUT UP FOR GOVERNOR.

Massachusetts Prohibitionists Nominate District Attorney.

BOSTON, June 28.—District Attorney John B. Moran was today nominated for governor by the Massachusetts Prohibitionists at their annual state convention held in this city.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Crane, pastor of People's Temple, Boston, placed Mr. Moran's name before the convention. In his speech nominating Mr. Moran, Mr. Crane charged that corruption was rampant and that the Republican members of the legislature "were the lackeys of the grog shop." Although the nomination of Mr. Moran was received with applause it was not made unanimous.

The party platform, as usual, deals in great part with a discussion of the liquor traffic. It charges that state and local officials try "to shield and protect notorious lawbreakers." The action of Governor Guild in signing the so-called Tourjée twelve o'clock shutters and screen bills is denounced.

The other plaks on the ticket were filled as follows: Lieutenant governor—Professor H. S. Crowell, Ashburnham; secretary of state—Jonathan S. Lewis, Stoneham; treasurer and receiver general—S. Frederick French, Mansfield; auditor—James F. Peace, Merrimac; attorney general—Allen Coffin, Nantucket.

WOMEN AS DRIVERS.

[Country Life in America.]

It is not many years ago that anything in the shape of a horse was supposed to be good enough for a woman. It was the popular idea among those who knew that, given a good horse, a woman could ride it in less than a year. All this has changed among the intelligent women, however. Nowadays the women know how to handle a horse—that is, those who use their brains and have watched the real horseman at his work, so this question of sex is not so important as it was at one time. Of course there are thousands of women who know little or nothing about the horse, but with the great number of horse shows all over the country their education is progressing fast, and it will not be long before almost any horse with a reasonable disposition can be safely trusted to a woman and be driven or ridden without damage. At the same time there are ladies' and men's horses, not due to the fact that the animals will be handled by the different sexes, but because they require different characteristics, according to the persons in charge of them.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY WITH RESERVATION.

much interest. Mr. Comstock, in an interview, is quoted as saying that he is willing to appear for the defense if called upon, and to give evidence as to White's conduct.

"About a year and a half ago," said Mr. Comstock, "Thaw came to me and complained about White's actions. After his marriage he came to me many times. He saw me again about two weeks before the murder.

"As to Thaw's purpose in furnishing me with his evidence against White, I sincerely believe it was prompted by the purest motives. I do not mean that Thaw thought White should be murdered, but that he should be taken out of the community by legal processes and put in prison. Thaw seemed to have an awful weight upon his heart when he visited me, but I was unable to fathom it, and he never volunteered any information on the subject."

"On the strength of his information and from that received in anonymous letters, which corroborated Thaw's statements, I endeavored to get at the truth with a view to securing a conviction if possible.

"But when it came to preparing a case against White, many difficulties confronted me. The result was that I had no substantial evidence to offer in a legal action which would make a conviction certain. My ill success in not bringing White to trial seemed to depress Thaw. As to whether I believe this depression caused Thaw to commit the murder, I do not care to say."

The strain of yesterday's proceedings seriously affected Mrs. Thaw. She had hardly reached her apartments when she fainted, and it was necessary that a physician be called to revive her.

Thaw has had several unpleasant experiences with prison discipline since his confinement in the Tombs, but his keepers say that on each occasion he has met them gracefully. He had considerable difficulty in getting to sleep last night because of the intense heat in his cell, and about midnight called a keeper and asked permission to walk in the corridors.

"I'm sorry," replied the keeper, "but the regulations forbid prisoners leaving their cells during the night."

"Then I guess I don't walk," was Thaw's comment as he returned to his cot.

An hour later he asked for a lunch, but again the prison regulations were called to his attention.

"Then I don't eat, either," said Thaw with a smile, and a few minutes later he was sound asleep. He was up early this morning, and by the time the gong sounded at 7 o'clock was ready for the morning exercise in the corridor.

Talking to one of the keepers about the exercises he got in prison, he said it was hardly enough for him as he had been the habit of swinging Indian clubs every morning when he first got up. He asked if it would not be possible for arrangements to be made for him to have either a pair of clubs or dumb bells brought to him, so that he could get more exercise.

"Not on this tier," was the keeper's diplomatic way of informing Thaw that prisoners charged with murder are not allowed to have weapons of any kind, or anything else with which they might possibly do themselves or others an injury.

While waiting for the opening of court, Thaw sat near an open window in the Bridge of Sighs, which connects the prison with the criminal court building. He talked freely during his brief stay, but declined to say anything whatever concerning his case. He appeared to be in good physical condition.

Thaw was taken into Justice Cowing's court where he was to plead to the murder charge behind three other prisoners, one of whom was a negro charged with larceny. His appearance was very little different from that of yesterday, except that he was slightly paler. When his case was called Thaw stepped briskly to the barrier inside of which his counsel, ex-Judge Olcott and T. J. McManus, were sitting at a table with Assistant District Attorneys Garvan and Nott.

When Clerk Tenney read the charge of murder in the first degree for the killing of Stanford White, he asked Thaw what he had to say in regard to the indictment, and the prisoner answered distinctly "nothing."

His counsel interposed an amendment to the plea, asking the court for leave to withdraw the plea any time up to next Tuesday. This was granted, and a moment later the prisoner re-entered the prison.

Thaw was remarkably cool and collected during his brief visit to the court room and prior to that ordeal, when he sat for a time in the Bridge of Sighs.

Mrs. Thaw, according to the prisoner's lawyers, had not been down town during the forenoon, but she was expected to call upon her husband, as well as his legal advisers, some time later in the day.

FOUND GUILTY OF LARCENY.

Verdict Against Former Secretary to Senator Lodge.

BOSTON, June 29.—Robert G. Proctor, former secretary to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, was found guilty of larceny by the jury in the superior court in the sealed verdict, which was returned last night, and which was opened at today's session of the court. He was charged with the larceny of $225 from John G. Bestgen of Quincy, who alleged that he paid the amount as a contribution to the Republican campaign fund in 1904, giving it to Proctor in connection with an alleged promise to secure for Bestgen an appointment as counsel. Sentence was deferred.

The case has attracted considerable attention because of the fact that several prominent Republicans in Massachusetts were called as witnesses. The trial began last Wednesday and about 50 witnesses were called, including almost the entire membership of the Republican state committee of 1904. The testimony given by these witnesses was that they had no recollection of having received money from Proctor. Testifying for himself, Proctor said that he had received money from Bestgen in 1904, and that he turned the amount over to some one at Republican headquarters, but could not state to whom he had given it.

Mr. McAnarney, for the defense, promptly filed a demand for a new trial.

RED MEN'S FIELD DAY.

Suggestion That Various Tribes of the State Meet in Newport During Carnival Week.

At a meeting of delegates from the various tribes of Red Men in the Rhode Island reservation, held in Providence last evening, to consider the feasibility of holding a field day for the order this year, a representative of Weenat Shassit Tribe of this city was present and proposed that the field day be held in Newport during Carnival week. The attractions of the week were fully explained, and when this had been done none of the other delegates seemed inclined to suggest any other place for holding the event, though it was the intention of those responsible for the calling of the meeting to have the event as usual at one of the bay resorts.

The delegates had generally gone to the meeting with the intention of opposing a field day this year, but when the Newport plan was explained it was voted advisable to hold a field day, and the delegates will now go before their several tribes with this recommendation of the committee and the suggestions there made. What the tribes will now do cannot be foretold, though it is stated that, if the Red Men of the state do not come in a body, two or three of the tribes will come. There are some enthusiastic workers among the tribes up the river, who declare that the Red Men should be in town in force on the night of the Carnival parade.

SENATE TO CONCEDE TO HOUSE.

Beveridge Withdraws Objection to Meat Inspection Substitute.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Senator Beveridge, who introduced the original meat inspection amendment to the agricultural bill, has withdrawn his objections to the House substitute, and this is taken as an indication that the Senate will today instruct its conferees to accept the House provision. The Indiana Senator said he was in favor of compelling the packers to pay the cost of inspection and requiring them to place the date of inspection on cans of meat. He said that the House substitutes retained all other features of the Senate bill, and that in the interest of practical legislation to purify meat products he would not stand in the way, because the government is required to pay the cost of inspection. The Senate leaders believe the outcome must be a concession to the House.

NEW YORK, June 29. Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 99, American Locomotive 85, American Smelting 111 ex div., Anaconda 239, Michigan 52½, Baltimore & Ohio 117, Brooklyn Transit 76¾, Canadian 159½, Colorado Fuel & Iron 15, Erie 42, Erie first preferred 48½, Ontario & Western 18½, Pennsylvania 120⅝, Reading 125, Rock Island 24⅝, Sugar 130½, St. Paul 174, Southern Railway 35⅝, Southern Pacific 68¼, Union Pacific 111¾, United States Steel 35⅞, United States Steel preferred 102⅝.

10—The movement of prices at the opening of the stock market today was very irregular, numbers of the same group showing mixed gains and losses. Illinois Central advanced 1¼, Atlantic Coast Line 1 and Colorado Fuel ⅜. There was a decline of about a point in Reading, and large fractions in St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Smelting. The volume of dealings was restricted.

11—Efforts by the bears to weaken the market and a desire to take profits on yesterday's late raise, caused a general set-back in which stocks which were the weakest yesterday suffered the most. Hasty covering by the short interest commenced when supporting orders began to be placed, and the market made up nearly all of its loss. Business became excessively dull on the rise. The market was weakening again at 11 o'clock.

Preparations and Committees for the Coming Aquidneck Grange Bazaar.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Aquidneck Grange held its regular meeting last evening, when there was a fair attendance, about 40 being present. During the business portion of the meeting the subject of the Aquidneck Grange fair was brought up for discussion. The proceeds from the fair will be used for some worthy object, there being several ways in which a goodly amount of cash on hand would be much appreciated. The committee appointed at the last meeting, having met previously with Mr. Howard R. Peckham, brought before the Grange his report of its appointments of additional sub-committees. It is to be called the Aquidneck Grange Bazaar, and is to be held in the town hall August 29-30. The committees as now arranged are as follows:

Head superintendents—Mr. Howard R. Peckham, Mrs. J. Oscar Peckham.
Secretary—Mrs. Carrie D. Peckham.
Treasurer—Henry C. Sherman.
Committee on entertainment—J. Overton Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Peckham.
Supper—Mrs. Howard G. Peckham, Mrs. Daniel Hazard, Mrs. Hestecom S. Peckham, Mrs. Arthur L. Peckham, Mrs. William C. Stevens, Mrs. Robert Patterson.
Lighting Grounds—Charles H. Ward.
Soliciting—John Austin, Joseph A. Peckham, Joel Peckham, J. Oscar Peckham.
Superintendent of Decoration—Karl M. Stone.
Cake Table—Mrs. E. Marion Peckham, Mrs. Charles H. Ward.
Candy Table—Mrs. William H. Hubbell, Miss Grace C. Ward.
Fancy Table—Mrs. E. A. Brown.
Apron Table—Mrs. Sarah C. Manchester.
Sofa Cushion Table—Mrs. P. M. Conley, Mrs. Arthur C. Sisson.
Ice Cream—Mrs. George E. Ward.
Fortune Teller—Miss Ellen M. Peckham.
Flower Table—Mrs. Harry E. Peckham, Miss Nellie K. Peckham.
Lemonade, Miss May Peckham.
Grab Table—Mrs. George W. Smith, Mrs. John A. Austin.
Shooting Gallery—William S. Caswell, James A. Taber.

Others appointed for supper tables—Mrs. J. Overton Peckham, Mrs. Daniel A. Peckham, Mrs. William M. C. Spooner, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. J. Willis Peckham, Mrs. Harry C. Sherman, Jr., Mrs. G. Nathan Smith, Miss Mary Irish, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Albert C. Young, Mrs. Joseph A. Peckham, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. John Anthony, Miss Mabel McClellan, Mrs. R. W. H. Peckham, Mrs. Charles J. H. Schwarz.

Tea and Coffee—Mrs. Elisha A. Peckham.

Japanese Tea Room—Miss Louise Harker, Miss Ethel M. Barker.

Further arrangements will be made as fast as possible by this committee.

After the meeting was closed there was a program, consisting of singing of familiar songs from the new books recently provided. These included "Old Kentucky Home" and "Marsa's in the cold, cold, ground," with two readings by Miss Grace E. Ward, "The Farmer and the Wheel, or The New Lackawar," and "The First Settler's story," both of which were by Will Carlton.

Later a strawberry supper was served in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Willis Peckham and Mr. and Mrs. J. Overton Peckham. The tables looked attractive, being decorated by roses, brought by Mr. Howard R. Peckham and Mr. G. Nathan Smith. Other flowers were also seen among the decorations, which were very beautiful. The few berries which were left after the supper were disposed of at auction.

At the next meeting of the Grange there will be initiation, when the first and second degrees will be conferred upon a number of candidates. A short patriotic program will be given, in charge of Mrs. J. Oscar Peckham.

A recommendation was received from the agricultural society, which holds its annual fair in Portsmouth during September, asking Aquidneck Grange to consider exhibiting in competition with the other local Granges for prizes which will be awarded for the best exhibit, $20 and $10. This communication will be brought up for consideration at the next meeting.

Mr. R. P. Medbury of Providence is in town on business.

Mr. Frank Sherman of Newport has purchased a part of the lot of land belonging to Mr. Melville Hull, nearly across from Turner road and adjoining land of Mr. Manuel Ray on the west, and purposes building a cottage there.

Rev. H. H. Crocklow will preach Sunday evening on "The Unrecognized Class of Middletown." At the afternoon service there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion.

A telephone line has been placed in the council room at the town hall, which will prove a great convenience in many ways.

Miss E. Marion Perry of Cambridge is visiting relatives in town for a few days.

Mrs. Lydia Chase, who has been at the Newport Hospital, was successfully operated on Wednesday and is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. William G. Peckham of Newport has been at "Camp Comfort" and made ready the cottage, which with some of her family she will next Monday begin to occupy for the summer.

Miss A. Sarah Ward is holding a picnic in the grounds at the Witherbee school today, as a celebration of the last day of school for this year and previous to the long summer vacation.

Miss Annie Coleman took her scholars for a drive yesterday in an omnibus, a pleasant time being enjoyed.

Mrs. Hullington and Mrs. C. P. Harrington of Newport were guests of Mrs. Sidney Johnson yesterday.

At St. Columba's Guild meeting, yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Harry E. Peckham, no definite decision was reached regarding the changing of the date of the Berkeley fair, as had been anticipated. This matter will be decided Tuesday afternoon, when the guild is to meet with its president, Mrs. William H. Hunter, at Sanscy-fields Farm.

Mr. Charles Holmes, head coachman for Madame Louise Bonat, has been sent by Madame Bonat to the School of Automobile Engineering in New York for a thorough course in automobiling instruction.

Miss Edith May Peckham returned today for the summer from the Rhode Island Normal School, Providence.

PRIZES AT ST. MARY'S.

Fathers Meenan and Reddy Address the Scholars at the Graduation Exercises at the School.

At the graduating exercises of St. Mary's School yesterday the gold medal for scholarship was presented by the donor, Rev. W. B. Meenan, to Lawrence I. Ebbitt. Rev. Father Meenan, who presided and who gave a timely address to the scholars, as did Rev. Father Reddy, presented the scholarship prizes as follows:

Grade 1, A First—James A. Gought; second, Miss Adeline Galvin. B, first, Thomas McCann; second, Miss Irene Harrington.

Grade 2, A—First, Frederick Sullivan; second, Leo Martin. (B)—First, Miss Theresa D. Donohue second, Miss Annie Donovan.

Grade 3, (A)—First, Miss Mary Healy; second, Miss Mary Keogan. (B)—First, William Perry; second, James H. Grant.

Grade 4 (A)—First, Miss Agnes Maher; second, Paul Sullivan. (B)—First, Patrick Sullivan; second, William Nagle.

Grade 5, (A)—First, Miss Catherine F. Sullivan; second, Miss Agnes Sullivan. (B)—First, Miss A. Sullivan; second, Miss Catherine Murtha.

Grade 6 (A)—First, Miss Catherine Leahy; second, Miss Kelleher. (B)—First, Miss Agnes Fitzgerald; second, Miss Margaret Murphy.

Grade 7 (A)—First, James Fitzsimmons; second, Charles Smith. (B)—First, Miss Anastasia McDonnell; second, Miss Mary McMahon.

Grade 8 (A)—First, Miss Lillie McMahon; second, Miss Nellie Sullivan.

Grade 9—First, Thomas Sullivan; second, Miss Mary Gillis. In this grade the prize for elocution was awarded to Robert Hayes.

The principal features of the program were a debate as to whether the French had a better claim to the Ohio and Mississippi valleys than the English, the participants being Miss Mary Gillis, Thomas Sullivan, Lawrence Ebbitt and Miss Lillie McMahon; the recitations by Miss Anastatia Sullivan, "The Monk Felix;" Thomas Sullivan, "The Sethoscope Song," and Robert Hayes, who rendered in a capital manner, "Voyage of the Good Ship Union."

After the exercises the class was photographed by Rankin.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Ladies' Association of St. Paul's Church met at the guild house Thursday afternoon. Many members were present, and eight guests. Supper was served by the committee—Mrs. Edward H. Anthony, Mrs. Arthur C. Chase and Mrs. Charles L. Freeborn—to about 30 persons.

At the anniversary exercises of the Rogers High School, honors were awarded to three students from Portsmouth. Miss Helen Ward Sisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert A. Sisson, had one of the two essays, "The Companionship of Books," and read it in a pleasing manner. She also won the second Norman medal for scholarship. William Coggeshall Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Anthony, took the second prize for English composition, and his brother, Gould Anthony, first prize in one department of manual training.

Miss Bertha Hicks, daughter of Captain Oliver G. Hicks of Bristol Ferry, who has only been teaching a few years, lastly in Malden, Mass., has been appointed critic teacher at the high school in Barrington, having been selected by the state critic, Miss Bosworth. Great efforts were made to retain her in Malden.

Miss Bertha Hicks and Miss Addie Hicks of the Boston Conservatory of Music have arrived home to spend their vacation with their parents.

Mr. John P. Chase sent new potatoes to market Wednesday.

John Henry Douglas of California spoke at the Rhode Island Monthly Meeting Thursday morning to a good congregation.

There are so many social affairs every day in the week in Portsmouth that an evening in which only one for the public is noted is quite uncommon. This is the case, however, for next Monday night, when the entertainment for the benefit of the St. Mary's and the Christian churches will be given under the management of Mrs. Field and Miss Helen Ward Sisson.

Master Everett Gray, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gray, fell from a tree Tuesday morning and broke his left wrist. He was taken to a surgeon in Newport, who in order to reduce the fracture was obliged to break one of the small bones, as in his fall he drove the bones past each other, and this was the only way to keep the wrist from being crooked. This is the second time within two years that he has broken the same arm.

Miss Tuck of Newport was guest Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Chase at Wappinaug.

Many Portsmouth people went to the circus Wednesday.

Mr. Carlton Macomber, who is a student at the University of Maine, is spending his vacation with his father, Mr. Isaac B. Macomber.

IN A BOSTON STREET CAR.

Senator Hoar used to tell this story of an incident he witnessed on a Boston street car. It was about 11 o'clock p. m., the mystic hour when all lawabiding Bostonians lose their thirsts. The Senator happened to notice a man running after the car and vainly trying to attract the conductor's attention. The Senator notified the conductor, who stopped the car.

The belated passenger, who was somewhat under the influence of liquor, had no sooner climbed aboard than he delivered himself of the following remarks:

"Shay, Mr. Conductor, does this road run to 'commodate the passengers, or the passengers run to 'commodate the road?"

CAN STILL PLAY BALL.

Alumni Too Much for the Regular Rogers Team.

"Old Duffers" Give the Youngsters Many Points on the National Game.

The Alumni base ball players rather did the Rogers High School team of 1906 at the Gamwell lot yesterday afternoon, in the presence of quite a gathering of spectators. The "old Duffers" put "Hall" Clarke in the box and Dr. DeBlois behind the plate. It is some time since either played ball, but both were ball players and time had not entirely eradicated their earlier training, and while Clarke was a trifle inclined to wildness he was effective and every one knows what that means. Better batters than the Rogers team have gone down before Clarke, and the school boys went down yesterday when they wanted hits. In the fourth inning, for example, they made three safe drives. The first one ended ingloriously in an attempt at stealing second and the second one died between first and second because the third safe one hit the runner.

The other Old Duffers gave Clarke and DeBlois good support, of course, Dr. Luther missed a couple that did not bound just right, and Dr. Corbett, after batting into Chace's territory, dropped a fly that belonged to the right fielder, but these were to be expected; what was not to be expected was the way the Old Timers did things. Their throwing was very accurate, and no mistakes were made, and then on fielding they gave the youngsters lots of points. They started right in in the second inning, when Dr. Corbett covered first, while Sherman gathered in a grounder, and the runner was out at first. Clarke followed this up on the next ball hit by striking down Parnele between home and third. Then in the sixth Clarke covered first, while Sherman gathered in the grounder, and the runner sat down.

In the eighth Dr. Corbett covered himself with glory by facing a hot one that should have been a safe drive; it bounded all over him, but the agile new benedict gathered in the sphere and the runner was out. Again in the ninth Clarke covered first while Sherman and Corbett raced for the grounder, and again the runner sat down. Corbett getting the assist. These were all plays of a sort that the Rogers boys have not seen before this season, and they were done by fielders who, as base runners, were at times too tired to run it out, but when they had a chance they got there. In base running for a while they were a surprise to themselves, but as the score got one sided their agressiveness as batters and base runners died out and they became only anxious to have the ninth inning close.

The regular team did not cover itself with glory. Anthony alone seemed to have life and snap, and he deserves much credit for the way he worked. To his credit goes four of the bases stolen by the school team, and throughout he seemed to be playing in the Alumni class rather than in the Rogers class. He fielded a steady game, but the old eyes seemed to have their batting eyes with them and hit them out pretty hard. He stopped one from Maurice Butler's bat in the second that seemed labelled a safe one, and did the same for Jennings in the third.

A word should be said of the umpire. As last year the biggest man was selected, and again it was Cottrell. He did fairly well and there was little kicking, but he had a delusion that caused lots of groans and some ejaculations from both sides. This was that any ball that he could hit was a strike for either Collett or Butler.

It will be noticed that the Alumni team was a sort of doctors' convention, four of the ten players being of the medical profession, and all seemed to give a good idea of the activities suggested by that occupation. The score:

WILD DOGS IN NEW JERSEY.

Wild dogs have wrought havoc among the sheep and other small domestic animals in Mount Olive township, N. J. The farmers are hunting them. Several years ago hunters visiting Mount Olive lost two valuable dogs and never recovered them. They made their home in the dense swamps and were seldom seen in the daytime, but subsisted by killing game and occasionally made raids on the farmers' poultry yards and sheep pens.

Their number increased and they have grown almost as wild and fierce as wolves. They roam about the adjoining farms, and when they attack a drove of sheep often kill several at a time. A vigilance committee has been organized and will scour the woods in hopes of killing off the dogs.

CAPTAIN WYNNE RESIGNS FROM SERVICE.

Captain Robert F. Wynne, of the United States Marine Corps has sent his formal resignation from the service to Brigadier General George F. Elliott, commandant of the marine corps, to be forwarded through the regular official channels to the President.

A delegation of the marines in the navy yard and on board the ships there, waited on Captain Wynne with a "round robin," which was to be signed by every marine in the North Atlantic fleet that could be reached, begging the President not to dismiss the captain or accept his resignation, and saying that he was the bravest and most competent officer in the corps.

BRINDAMOUR SUCCESSFUL.

The Handcuff King Escapes from a Box After Being Nailed Therein.

Brindamour continues to be a strong drawing card at Freebody Park, and last evening there was a large audience not only to witness his simpler feats of escaping from handcuffs but to see if he could escape from the box which the Newport Dry Goods Company had prepared especially for a trial of his skill. It proved the most difficult task he had undertaken during his stay in Newport and nearly baffled his skill, but he was successful at last, and tonight will try to escape from a huge paper bag which the Crown Clothing Company has had made to further test his ability.

Last evening after successfully escaping from a pair of English screw handcuffs and from a cord with which he had been tied, arrangements were concluded for the supreme test, the packing box. The committee, consisting of representatives of the Newport Dry Goods Company, who had made the box, were in charge. It was an unusually strong box, made of spruce boarding and fastened with four-inch nails, cemented and cleated, the heads of the nails being covered in, every one. Brindamour was handcuffed, placed in a sack which was tied and knotted, and put in the box, the cover was fastened down as firmly as hammer and nails could do it, and the box was put in the cabinet.

It was a long wait, but finally after 25 minutes the signal was given, the curtain was drawn aside and Brindamour stepped out, showing signs of having had a hard struggle, but with a smile which bespoke his pleasure at his success. The box was examined and found intact, and the spectators gave expression to their wonderment at the skill of the man.

Tomorrow, school over for the summer, will find many children at the matinee, attractions for the little ones being the Piccolo Midgets and DeWar's troupe of performing cats and dogs. Some of next week's attractions are Woodward's Educated Seals, "the humans of the deep," and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thorne and company in the comedy, "An Uptown Flat."
